PRINCIPAL REINSTATED: Brandywine high school principal Dr. D. L. (Jim) Marshall is embraced by wife Doty, at left, after being reinstated to his job with full back pay by school board last night. Two female school employees had filed allegations of misconduct against the principal who was suspended from his job last December. Reinstatement was announced by board last night following its study of testimony taken during closed hearings. (Staff photos)

NILES — Brandywine high school Principal Dr. D. L. (Jim) Marshall, suspended from his job by the school board since last December, has been reinstated to the post with full back pay, the board announced last night.

Marshall, 38, had been accused of misconduct by two female school employees.

The board took testimony in closed hearings earlier this month and voted April 14 on one allegation, and on the second allegation last night. Reinstatement votes on both allegations were split, according to the board announcement.

The exact nature of the complaints were not disclosed by the school board.

In announcing its decision, the board said evidence and testimony presented during closed hearings earlier this month did not support, "beyond a reasonable doubt," allegations of teacher's aide Mrs. Ralph (Diana) Vossburg, 22, filed the allegations against Dr. Marshall last December in connection with an incident she claimed took place at the high school last September.

The board said it also found that evidence and testimony presented during the hearing failed to establish, "school-related misconduct," in connection with allegations filed in January by Miss Cathlin Bishop, 22, a junior high school home economics teacher. Miss Bishop filed the charges in connection with an incident she claimed took place off school premises last September.

It is the conclusion of the board that any school-related aspect of those events of this evening terminated after the visit to the junior high school and at such time as the parties agreed to proceed to Miss Bishop's apartment and that the parties thereafter, in their personal conduct, were beyond the supervisory control and jurisdiction of this board," the board said of Miss Bishop's allegations.

School Board Member Thomas C. Clarke voted against reinstatement of Marshall in connection with Miss Bishop's allegations, making the vote 5-1 in favor of the principal. He was joined by Board Member Bernard W. Streets Jr. in also voting against reinstatement in connection with Mrs. Vossburg's allegations, making that vote 5-2 in favor of Dr. Marshall.

Trustee Michael McGregor was absent from the board's April 14 deliberations over Miss Bishop's allegations. He voted by secret, sealed ballot which was only to be opened in case of a tie vote, the board said. McGregor was present at last night's meeting and voted in favor of the reinstatement of Dr. Marshall.

Teacher Bill Has 'Limited' Strike Right

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A teacher bargaining package with "a limited right to strike" was hammered into final form late Friday to cap a marathon four-day closed-door meeting of teacher and administration representatives.

The package "has a limited strike provision. They were tired and their notes were in somewhat of disarray, so I am not sure of all the details without my own notes," said House Speaker Bobby Crim, D-Davison.

Crim and other Democratic leaders told representatives of teacher unions and school administrators to closet themselves together and work out a proposal to curb school strikes. Both sides had offered little more than unconstructive criticism in the past as lawmakers tried to write school strike legislation, Democrats said.

The broad guidelines arrived at Friday will be spelled out at a news conference Monday or Tuesday, Crim said. Both sides then will meet with legislative bill-drafters to write a formal proposal, he said.

Their proposal will be only a recommendation which the legislature can disregard, Crim said.

Crim said he was optimistic that a workable law will be enacted by Aug. 1 to halt a repeat of statewide strikes that crippled schools two years ago. Many two-year teacher contracts expire this year.

The negotiators began meeting Tuesday morning in a room of the Capitol Park Motel about three blocks from the State Capitol. Except for breaks for eating and sleeping, they met almost continuously, sometimes until 3 a.m. and 4 a.m. They came up with their compromise as it looked like they might spend all weekend together.

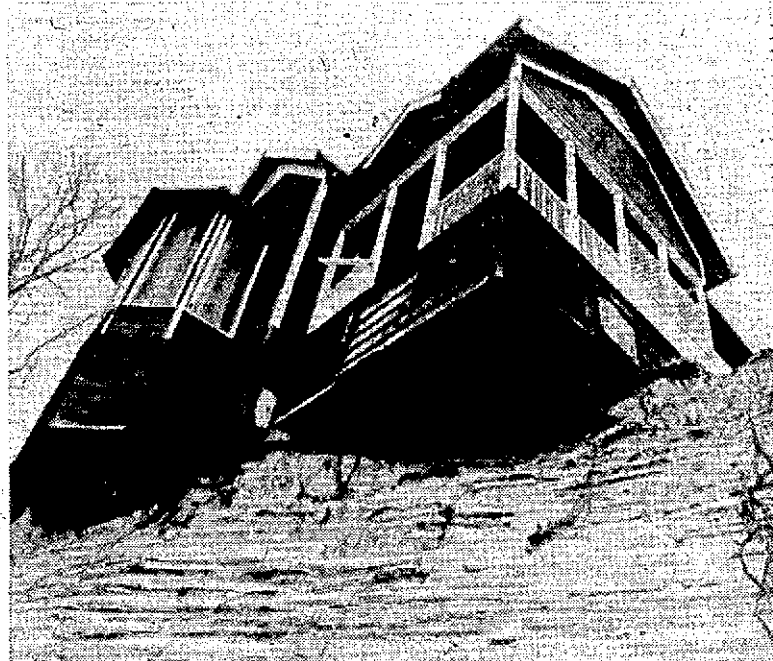

"I don't think that's an endurance record. They broke to eat and could have food brought in. Sixty hours in four days is my usual schedule," Crim said.

"They made it very clear that their proposal did not have any organizational endorsement," Crim said. "Their organizations still don't know what the recommendations are. They want to be known as an advisory committee."

Five negotiators on the administration side represented the Detroit School District, several Livonia-Plymouth area schools, the Michigan Association of School Administrators, the Wayne County Intermediate School District and the Michigan Association of School Boards.

The five teacher negotiators represented the Michigan Education Association, the Michigan Federation of Teachers and the Michigan AFT.

Rehearing On Sodus Canceled By Judge

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns Friday ordered the State Board of Education not to hold a rehearing on the Sodus school transfer issue until further order of the court.

In an eight-page opinion, Byrns directed the state board to vacate its order for the rehearing which had been scheduled for Monday in Lansing. The opinion also prohibits the board from any further proceedings relating to the transfer until further court order.

The rehearing had been ordered by the state board because of what it said was "new information and subsequent developments that have occurred in the Benton Harbor desegregation case."

The state board in July, 1974, transferred the Sodus township area of the Benton Harbor school district to Eau Claire. But U.S. District Judge Noel Fox issued a temporary injunction suspending the Sodus transfer because of a separate case involving desegregation, initiate by the NAACP, which is still before the U.S. District court in Grand Rapids.

Byrns' opinion says that if the federal court should rule that the transfer would result in segregation, there would be no need to rule on the rehearing matter, since it would essentially be a dead question.

"Should the federal court determine that the territory transfer at issue here is an act of unconstitutional segregation, it has the authority to forbid it (the transfer) and would not hesitate to do so," the opinion says.

"Such action by the federal court would render any rehearing or further action by the board irrelevant and this case before this (circuit) court moot."

On the other hand, if the federal court should rule there is no segregation caused by the transfer, Byrns said in an interview he would act on the rehearing matter "immediately."

"Should the federal court decide that the subject transfer does not encourage segregation . . . it may lift its injunction and thereby permit the question of the validity of the state board's rehearing attempt to proceed to conclusion in this court," the opinion notes.

The opinion was the result of a preliminary hearing Monday necessitated by a suit filed April 11 by some 88 residents of the Sodus transfer area. The suit contends the state board of education does not have the authority to rehear the case. Byrns reserved his ruling on that portion of the case.

Calling the transfer action "the tip of a litigational

Mrs. Shell, a 76-year-old widow, said, "That boy wilted like a ball of snow. I'm pretty strong." The man arrested was Robert McPhillips, 25. He was charged with aggravated assault, creating a disturbance and sniffing glue. Mrs. Shell also managed to break her arm. (AP Wirephoto)

IT'S THAT TIME AGAIN

Michigan To Join Nation

Like it or not, southwestern Michigan residents are to set their clocks ahead (clockwise, that is) one hour before retiring tonight. As of 2 a.m. Sunday, all of lower Michigan switches from standard time to daylight saving time (DST). The time instantly becomes 3 a.m. and everyone loses an hour of sleep.

All the rest of the nation, except for the Mountain time zone in Idaho, adjusted their clocks ahead on Feb. 23. Michigan by edict of the legislature stayed on standard time an extra two months.

Michigan, in the Eastern time zone, will be one hour ahead of Chicago. Chicago has been on DST for two months but it is in the Central time zone. The same holds true for Michigan City, LaPorte and Gary in nearby northwestern Indiana.

South Bend will fall one hour behind Michigan. It is in the Eastern time zone, but will remain on standard time year-around.

For air travelers, North Central Airlines flights out of Ross field will leave an hour later. For example, the first flight out in the morning has been leaving at 6:45 a.m. and now will leave at 7:45 a.m. local time. The airline keeps its watch set with Chicago.

ONE ASKS HEARING

Two SJ Teachers Quit Rather Than Fight Dismissal

St. Joseph board of education Friday accepted resignations of teachers George Benton and Webster Durfee who were facing possible dismissal under the tenure act. The resignations are effective June 9, the last day of school.

Another teacher, Bernadine Salvadore, requested a private hearing which the board scheduled for May 7.

Charges regarding professional services of the three teachers were filed by administrators March 26. Filing of charges is the first step toward dismissal under the tenure act.

Mrs. Salvadore's request for a hearing indicates she intends to contest the charges which have remained confidential.

In accepting resignations of Benton and Durfee, the board Friday voted to rescind its March 26 resolution accepting charges against them. The board also withdrew all record of the charges from the personnel records of Benton and Durfee.

Procedure for dismissal of teachers on tenure requires filing of charges by administrators, acceptance by the school board, hearings either private or public, if requested, and final action by the board. Appeals are also possible to the State Tenure Commission or the courts.

Charges against Mrs. Salvadore were filed by High School Principal Richard Higgs who also filed charges against Durfee. Charges against Benton were filed by William Weirick, shared-time coordinator.

Benton is in charge of the building trades program at St. Joseph high school and Durfee is in charge of machine shop classes. Benton has been in the St. Joseph school system 18 years.

Ford Would Jail Repeaters

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, hoping to put muscle behind the slogan that "crime does not pay," suggests that prison sentences be made mandatory for twice-convicted perpetrators of violent crimes. Ford, attending a 150th anniversary dinner Friday night at Yale Law School where he earned a degree in 1941, signaled key elements in an anticrime program he will submit to Congress in about six weeks. He said he would ask Congress to make sentences mandatory for those who commit violent crimes covered by federal law more than once. He said this could serve as a model for the adoption of similar provisions by the states.

'Artistry' Fails Inspection

By JIM SHANAHAN

A Benton township man was charged Friday with forging a state document — allegedly using a piece of hand-painted cardboard as a 1973 auto license tab. Arrested by Benton Harbor police was Robert James Whitfield, 47, of 228 Elmwood road. Patrolman Thomas Schader said inspection of a 1974 Oldsmobile revealed a cardboard tag attached to the left corner of the rear license plate. The numbers "73" were hand-painted on the cardboard in red. Schader said. A registration check showed the Oldsmobile registered to Whitfield, according to Schader. Police discovered the license tab while Whitfield was being booked on another charge — larceny in a building, alleged theft of meat from Hilltop Foods, Riverview drive.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Plugging The Insurance Cash Drain

For decades a strong sales pitch for life insurance has been the policy's loan value.

Take out a $10,000 ordinary life contract and be able to borrow up to $8,000 against it at 5 or 6 per cent, is a reminder any salesman worth his salt tosses at the prospect.

No pun intended, this feature has been a lifesaver for many people whose credit requirement may get a dim reception from the friendly family banker. The guaranteed rate is also lower than can be obtained from the banks, the savings and loan, credit unions or other lending sources.

Since the upward movement of the 1970s in all lending charges the policy loan has become something of a bonanza for people having a flair for leverage.

Leverage, in financial circles, is the art of borrowing money at one rate and putting it to work at a higher rate. This differential on any kind of a bundle can turn a tidy profit for the investor.

Thus it has become fashionable for larger policy holders to borrow to the hilt at a fixed 5 or 6 per cent and buy high yielding government, municipal or corporate bonds in the 8 to 10 range or better.

Conversely it is distressing to the insurance companies because the policy loan reduces their investing capabilities.

Earl Clark, chairman of the Occidental Life Insurance company, stated recently that last year better than 10 per cent of the premiums for new policies immediately went out the back door on loans. Clark told the reporter he knew of some firms who sustained a 30 per cent in and out experience. He characterized the latter as a shocker.

Starting Sept. 1, the Northwestern Mutual is sticking an 8 per cent rate on loans against policies sold after that date.

Others in the industry are expected to follow the Milwaukee firm's lead.

A warning to the policy holder that a loan reduces the coverage for his wife and beloved ones should the Maker issue a call has been futile in stemming the adverse cash flow.

Neither has a brotherhood argument made any impact. Policy loans at the low rate reduce a company's ability to pay the dividend to other holders of insurance in mutual insurers. Many buyers apply the dividend to paying their premiums. In theory, anyway, the higher policy loan charge can reduce the insurance cost of all buyers.

Still on the back burner is an idea the companies would like to install but are holding back upon through fear of legislative reprisal. This is the floating loan rate which bobs up and down constantly in response to the loan demand-money supply equation.

It is an unimpeachable investment principle, but a poor sales pitch. The insurance industry sells itself on stability. Telling a prospect he would have to take his chances on what the money market at large may be doing would be bad for business.

Bureaucratic Nuts Mess Up The Tinkering

One of the problems with tinkering with the nation's economic and business systems is that much of the tinkering is performed by people who for the most part have little experience either in economics or business. They are, however, experienced in politics.

That point becomes obvious after reading provisions of the mandatory conservation program advanced by the U.S. Senate as the short-term answer to the energy question. In a nebulous way, a majority of the Senate has decided Washington knows best what types of energy consumption are essential, which are not and even what lighting requirements should be built into office buildings to meet "efficiency lighting standards."

The act finally passed by the Senate is a kind of energy conservation in a large way. Further, its language is ambiguous enough to cover most eventualities.

Consider the phrase which calls for the introduction of "standards for reasonable control and restriction on discretionary transportation activities upon which the basic economic vitality of the country does not depend."

If that isn't a wide open invitation for bureaucratic intrigue, it will do until a better one comes along.

Philippine President Wonders About U.S.

Steady nerves will be required to weather the aftermath of the Indochina defeat. The disappointment of a major foreign policy defeat for the United States reaches farther than the shores of North America.

Another Southeast Asian ally — one which the U.S. helped rescue from despots of another generation — threatens publicly to throw the U.S. out. President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines has put in motion his own foreign policy review as a direct result of the fall of a large part of Indochina to the communists.

Marcos warns bluntly from the review could come the decision to negate the mutual security pact his country has with the United States, and if it does the U.S. will be asked to leave its Philippine bases. Two of those bases — Clark Field and the Subic Bay naval base — are among the largest and most important bases the United States maintains anywhere outside its own borders.

With the fall of Cambodia and the endangerment of South Vietnam, the power bases in Southeast Asia obviously have changed. Those countries which are neighbors to the conflict, even though not direct participants, are feeling the heat. Time and hard work will be required to mend softening relationships. Even then they may never again be quite the same.

CRITICAL OF CAPITOL CROWD

Editor:

While our Lansing lawmakers are feathering their nests, at the same time they are warning the people to brace for further hard economic times in Michigan.

Last month about $85,000 went for Senate remodeling. Sometimes there appears to be as many carpenters and electricians in the Capitol as lawmakers. Chief of the remodelers is Sen. Joseph Mack, D-Ironwood, who occupies an office that has been completely renovated since December, right down to $14 a yard carpeting. Senate speaker pro tem John Bowman, D-Roseville, has a mirror that runs from nearly the floor to ceiling. No cost figure was available.

Yes, you guessed right. Us taxpayers are the generous people who must deprive our family of many necessities just to be sure to be able to meet our taxes when they come due. Taxpayers probably will never know the exact cost of redecorating individual offices because the bills submitted by the contractor and architect are in a lump sum. Informal cost estimates for Mack's office run anywhere from $10,000 to $25,000. Don't our lawmakers realize that with hundreds of thousands of our men and women being laid off from work daily, to take on such extravagant projects is very senseless?

Construction work for the Senate is being performed by the Christman Company of Lansing, the same firm which has been remodeling the State Capitol for years without bids. The legality of awarding so much work without bids has been questioned in the past, but legislators defend repeated use of Christman by saying the company is familiar with the building. The Capitol building is nearly 100 years old and no detailed architectural plans can be found.

Washington members of the U.S. Senate engage in a widespread pattern of using committee employees as personal aides despite a Senate rule to the contrary.

The Senate staff budget has doubled from $10 million to $20 million in the last five years. The Senate should enforce its own staff rules or change them. The Senate should get rid of patronage jobs and slim down its staff considerably. Better yet, since the layoff of hundreds of thousands of people, why not do the same with committees, subcommittees, bureaucracies, lobbyists, agencies, and others too numerous to mention. And, as for these politicians, why not put in a full week's work just as was expected of people working in industries and at other jobs and for less money. Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., said that a 1946 law regulating the activities of lobbyists is a disgrace that permits lobbyists to influence legislation and policy out of the public view.

When the people voted, I'm sure they meant to select and vote for whom they believed to be the best man for this high office and would be able to make decisions on their own.

Wallace Says He Will Run

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace has eliminated the maybe and says that "as of now I intend to run" for president in 1976.

Wallace, who sought the White House as an independent in 1968 and ran in the Democratic primaries in 1972, is expected to seek the Democratic presidential nomination next year.

Asked Friday if, in fact, he has not already made a decision to seek the presidency in 1976, Wallace replied, "You can say that. As of now I intend to run."

Up until now the governor has only hinted that he would be in the race, although he has been putting together a national campaign organization.

Charles S. Snider, who is directing Wallace's national campaign, said that the governor's official announcement will probably come "the first two weeks in June."

People Power Could Save Us

WASHINGTON — The other day my high school son and daughter brought home lists of books to be used in their English courses.

If I approved of the books, the sheet was to be signed and returned. If there were books on the list I frowned on, my youngsters would not be asked to read them. Others would be substituted — again subject to approval.

The letter assumed I would not be familiar with all authors mentioned, and noted therefore I could later withdraw approval of any book on either list.

Reports are this new policy is taking hold in a number of communities. Its significance goes beyond textbooks.

A group of parents in West Virginia, fighting a local battle they believed in deeply — protesting the type of books permitted in their schools — have produced these waves across state lines.

The significance does not rest on which side you take in the West Virginia fight. Rather, the importance is that the simple fact of a one-step victory by a seemingly powerless group of parents gives us new belief in our own importance — in a day and age when it seems the power of the bureaucracy, whether federal or local, is beyond our control.

Sections of the press have called these men and women a variety of names, mostly uncomplimentary. But they are parents, and they have been struggling for what they believe.

There have been other victories of late, some on the right and some on the left, by people who would not be put down. These too suggest we are not powerless, that we as individuals do count.

Ralph Nader, like him or not, has made us look more closely at the products we buy and has caused manufacturers to take greater care in the safety of the goods they sell.

Frustration May Sire Third Party

Some conservative tacticians envision the coming-together in the near future of conservative Republicans and populist Democrats under the auspices of Ronald Reagan and George Wallace. Such a coalition may, and probably will eventually come to pass. Contact definitely does exist now between the Reagan and Wallace camps. But the prospect is that the Wallace and Reagan tracks will remain separate until after the two national conventions.

The Wallace camp considers that the Alabama governor will probably arrive at the Democratic Convention with a plurality of the delegates and may even mass a majority. At this point, they anticipate an apocalyptic effort to block Wallace. If the attempt to block Wallace will then go for the third-party course.

Certainly at the present moment the Democratic establishment is scared pale at the looming Wallace threat. In North Carolina, the regular party establishment considers — with good reason — that Wallace might easily win the Presidential primary there. Upon that reflection, the enthusiasm of the establishment for democracy rapidly declined, and an attempt is underway to shift from a primary to a state convention method of choosing delegates. The establishment would have much more control over such a convention. Because of Wallace's popularity, the same kind of move is underway in half a dozen other states.

The national media, by the way, are providing almost no sense of the high-quality political operation being run from Montgomery, Ala. The Wallace people are neither kooks nor liars.

Entering upon his fourth Presidential campaign, Wallace has the benefit of prior experience; he has found his professionals, and they are in charge. Because of the new campaign laws, moreover, the optimum approach to political fund-raising is to seek a very large number of widely dispersed contributors. Wallace is miles ahead of the other Democratic contenders in this regard. He is also best positioned of all to take advantage of the Federal funds available to candidates.

The Reagan scenario, as it can be pieced together, has a lot in common with Wallace's. Reagan has a committed constituency, and he is endeavoring to expand it through speeches and articles. His strategy is to pursue the primary route all the way to the Republican Convention.

Reagan has been urged frequently enough to announce early as a third-party candidate. A major consideration ruling out such a move is the possibility that President Gerald Ford might not in the end be a candidate — either because of his wife's health or for a variety of imaginable reasons. Were that to happen, with Reagan off on a third-party caper, Nelson Rockefeller would be unstoppable for Republican nomination.

Many in the Reagan camp think that the former California governor might well defeat President Ford in the opening primary in New Hampshire. Others think a strong run against Ford by N.H. Governor Meldrim Thompson would be even more damaging to Ford, a replay of the Gene McCarthy torpedoing of LBJ.

In any case, the Reagan scenario has him arriving at the Republican Convention with very great delegate strength and either gaining the nomination or turning aside to the third-party route. At that point, an effort would be made to form the Grand Coalition with George Wallace.

QUEENS TOUR WINDY CITY NEXT WEEK

Blossomtime Message Going To Chicago

By JAMES SHANAHAN
BH City Editor

The message of Blossomtime goes into Chicagoland next week, carried by southwestern Michigan's fairest couriers.

Cynthia Thornburgh, of Niles, Miss Blossomtime of 1975, starts a series of public appearances Monday in Chicago. She'll be accompanied by Denise Lockwood, Miss Galien, and Cindy Boven, Miss Matlawn, first and second runners-up respectively in the Miss Blossomtime contest.

Tuesday, they'll be joined by 27 other southwestern Michigan community queens for the annual visit to Great Lakes Naval hospital.

The Chicago schedule for Miss Thornburgh, Miss Lockwood and Miss Boven is a tour of Mercury Records Monday morning; luncheon guests of Johnson Publishing Co. whose director of public affairs, Reginald Hayes, was a Blossomtime pageant judge; and an afternoon tour of the John Hancock building.

Miss Blossomtime and her entourage will dine Monday night at the Empire Room of the Palmer House where impressionist Rich Little is appearing.

Tuesday will start with an appearance of Miss Blossomtime on Orion Samuelson's "Top of the Morning Show," on channel 9 at 7:30 a.m. Michigan time. WGN-TV will treat the group to breakfast before the departure to Great Lakes.

Accompanying Miss Blossomtime to Chicago will be Paul and Betty Mayhew, Blossomtime's central queens chairman; Gloria LaPointe, Niles Blossomtime chairman, and Tone Mammola, Blossomtime's official photographer.

At Great Lakes, they'll meet the other queens for lunch, tour the hospital wards to cheer patients and distribute Michigan Flavor-Best apples provided by the D. R. (Bud) Shaffer company.

The 27 community queens will leave the Travel Inn, Benton Harbor, by 15-car auto caravan at 8 a.m. Tuesday.

Robert Braamse, coordinator for the tour, said: "It is gratifying to note the many empty beds at Great Lakes since the U.S. got out of the Vietnam war. The girls and patients alike always look forward to this trip."

Many of the queens of former years still correspond with servicemen they met on visits to Great Lakes. The Chicago-Great Lakes tour starts a series of Blossomtime events leading up to the Grand Floral Parade May 10.

The Keys to the Cities tour in which queens visit their home towns begins May 5.

Petitions Ask Berrien To Control Lake

WATERVIET — A drive to get the Berrien county board of commissioners to assume responsibility for maintaining the water level of Paw Paw lake is underway in the Watervliet-Coloma area around the lake.

The drive is being headed by the Paw Paw Lake board, which was established by the Watervliet and Coloma township boards earlier this year. The lake lies in both townships.

Robert Jackson, Watervliet township representative on the lake board, said petitions asking the board to assume the responsibility and maintain the level at 621.8 feet are being circulated.

Jackson said the Berrien circuit court in 1948 ruled that the lake level should be maintained at 621.8 feet, but the court did not say who would have that responsibility.

Residents in both townships abutting the lake are being asked to sign the petitions.

There are approximately 500 homes around the lake, according to Jackson.

The petitions will be presented to both township boards at their next month's meetings. The boards will be asked to send the petitions requests to the county board, Jackson said.

He noted that the recent flooding of the lake area could have been avoided if there had been a dam or locks across the channel in Watervliet to divert the water from coming into the lake. The lake is an appendage of the Paw Paw river.

A dam owned by the Watervliet Paper company across the river is no longer an effective means of controlling the lake level because it is in need of repairs, Jackson said.

Red Cross Opens In Watervliet

The Red Cross chapter of Berrien county opened a disaster headquarters in Watervliet today to assist persons afflicted by the flooding around Paw Paw lake.

The flood headquarters is located in the free Methodist church basement, 615 Paw Paw avenue. Red Cross workers will be there until 5 p.m. today and again Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. Hours will be 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Monday, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Ralph Tuttle, of Niles, disaster chairman for the county Red Cross chapter, said some 300 homes around the lake have been damaged in varying degrees by flood waters. Affected persons needing emergency assistance can visit or call the disaster headquarters. Special phones have been installed for the five-day period through Wednesday. The numbers are 463-8119 and 463-3588.

Both new face maximum prison sentences of two years, according to Van Buren Prosecutor Frank Willis.

Attorneys for the trial were Assistant Prosecutor Georg Dunn and Ross Starckall of Kalamazoo.

Whirlpool Board Names New Veep

The board of directors of Whirlpool Corp. this week elected Lowell G. Holder vice president for refrigeration products group.

Holder has been general manager of the group since last September and will continue in that position. He is headquartered at Whirlpool's Evansville, Ind., division where he succeeded George Gowen who retired as a vice president.

Holder will continue to report to Glenn R. Willis, vice president for laundry and refrigeration group products.

The refrigeration products group operates plants in Evansville, Fort Smith, Ark., and Danville, Ky., producing refrigerators, freezers, room air conditioners, ice makers and compressors.

Holder has been with Whirlpool and a predecessor, the Socar Refrigeration Co., since 1948. Among positions he has held are director of procurement and then director of manufacturing engineering for Whirlpool's laundry group and in St. Joseph, 1965-68, and general manager of T. Paul division the St. Paul division, 1968-74.

Transplanting is part of court-ordered compromise between Manley and Lake and Lincoln townships which took firm to court over possible environmental effects of sand mining.

More Napier Condemnations Filed

The Berrien county road commission has filed eight more condemnation suits in Berrien circuit court to get possession of parts of properties abutting Napier avenue in Benton township.

The suits were filed so the road commission can acquire title to portions of the property needed to widen Napier from Reeder street at Fairplain Plaza east to I-94. The latest suits generally seek widths varying from about 7 to 40 feet.

The widening project, estimated to cost about $1.5 million, is scheduled for this year. Napier will be widened from its present two lanes to five and curves will be reaked.

Also in the suits, the road commission filed a statement of necessity, meaning the acquisitions are necessary for the widening. Acting Circuit Judge Ronald Lange has set May 19 as the date for hearings on all eight suits when a judge will declare when the road commission can take possession of the property and fix a date for trial if the two sides cannot reach agreement on a price. If a suit goes to trial, a jury decides what compensation is to be paid.

The suits were filed against (name of property owner, followed by address of owner, and estimated compensation): Fairplain Plaza Inc., a portion 40-foot wide and 335 feet long westerly from Plaza drive, $9,500. Pearl, Mabel, and Robert E. King, Jr., 1294 East Napier, $6,427.

Dewie and Thelma Jordan, 1380 East Napier, $2,251.

Irene Masters, 1659 Berrien avenue, $1,000.

Vera and Thomas DeRosa, 763 East Napier, $1,961.

The George Schoettes estate, Napier and Downing avenue, $2,533.

Robert and Mary Small, 140 Higman Park, three lots in the area of Napier and Berrien, $9,705.

Elmer Hidy, 1298 East Napier, $1,383.

Juvenile Care Is Topic

ENRICHMENT SERIES: A three-part program, "Who Cares About the Juvenile," will be held Wednesday, April 30, at 7:30 p.m. at St. Bernard's Catholic church, Benton Harbor. From left are Sister Ann Maloney, coordinator of the Catholic Tri-Parish Adult Enrichment Program; Mrs. Joseph (Bernice) Strotter, Niles, a Group Home parent, and Ruth B. Wood, director of the Group Home program of the Berrien county Juvenile Courts. (Staff photo)

Public Invited

"Who Cares About the Juvenile" is the subject of a program to be held Wednesday, April 30, at 7:30 p.m. in the parish hall of St. Bernard's Catholic church, Benton Harbor.

The public is invited and there will be no admission charge.

"Society, we are told, is failing in its responsibility to the young," Ruth Wood, director of the Group Home Program of the Berrien County Juvenile Courts, says. "Many young people come to the attention of the Juvenile Court, though they have committed no crime against society."

The three-part program will begin with a film, "Children in Trouble," followed by the presentation of a proposed solution by Mrs. Wood.

Bernice and Joseph Strotter, parents in the Group Home Program, will then be interviewed by Mrs. Wood.

A question and comment period will follow.

The program is being arranged by Sister Ann Maloney, coordinator of the Catholic Tri-Parish Adult Enrichment Program.

MASN State Officer

Esther Kutz, St. Joseph school nurse, has been elected vice president of the Michigan Association of School Nurses, a department of the Michigan Education Association.

Mrs. Kutz was elected at the annual conference on the association held at Schuss Mountain April 16 through 19.

Other school nurses from this area who attended the conference were Margaret VanAnnoy and Joanne Karns, also with the St. Joseph public schools; Mildred DeHorn and Eleanor Hanson, Benton Harbor area schools; Bonnie Paustian, Berrien Springs; Lois Wier, Coloma; Irma Sager, Buchanan; Marion Sunquist, New Buffalo; and Edie Tykeman, River Valley.

Ferris Students On Tour

Three area students are members of Ferris State college's Concert Choir which will present concerts at five Michigan high schools during its annual spring tour Wednesday, April 30, and Thursday, May 1.

The three students are Jeff Dublestein, Allegan; Mike Miller, Coloma; and Victor Burlingame, Bangor.

The choir, under the direction of William Donahue, will present concerts at Kalkaska, Charlevoix, Petoskey, Gaylord and Manistota high schools.

'Grief' Topic At 'Y'

Robert Starks, of Kerly and Starks Funeral home, St. Joseph, will speak on "Grief and Dying" Monday, May 5, at 7 p.m. at the St. Joseph - Benton Harbor YWCA.

Admission is $1.50, and reservations, which must be secured by noon, Monday, May 5, may be made by contacting the YWCA.

A question and answer period will follow the talk by Starks.

COMMUNITY CONCERTS

Membership Drive Begins April 28

Community Concerts Association of Southwest Michigan will kick off its 33rd annual membership drive for the 1975-76 season at a dinner for drive workers Monday, April 28, at 7 p.m. at the St. Joseph Holiday Inn.

Membership in the association entitles members to attend the four concerts which will be presented here during the next season as well as those presented in LaPorte, and Michigan City, Ind., and Holland.

Fees for membership in the association for next year will remain the same as this year at $10 for adults and $5 for students.

Memberships will be sold only next week. No tickets are sold during the concert season.

An office will be maintained at the St. Joseph Holiday Inn for next week only and those wishing to obtain memberships may telephone the office at 963-7957 or may stop in at the office from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day through Friday, May 2.

As an added bonus, to persons buying new memberships during the campaign will also be entitled to attend the final concert of the current season Saturday, May 10, when the Boston Symphony Chamber Players will perform at Lakeshore high school auditorium.

Each year concerts are selected to provide a variety of musical entertainment for association members.

Three concerts have already been selected for the 1975-76 season. Appearing here will be the famed New Christy Minstrels, folk singers; The Welsh Choir of Cardiff, a mixed group of 45 voices; and the Vermeer Quartet, a chamber ensemble of two violinists with a viola and cello players.

The fourth concert will be selected by the association board at the conclusion of the drive and is based on the total membership subscription.

Each year, an attempt is made to reach different musical tastes and interests, according to Mrs. Robert Sykora, association president.

In addition to the concert May 14 by the Boston Symphony Chamber Players, this year's concerts have included performances by Barbara Hendricks, soprano; the Hungarian Folk Ballet and Adliss and Crofut, folk singers.

There are 125 volunteers who will sell memberships during the drive and who will be honored during the kick-off dinner.

Mrs. Sykora is in charge of the dinner and a new representative from Community Concerts of New York, Della Brewster, will attend the dinner and help workers during the week.

Division chairmen are Mrs. Kenneth Ogenorth, Mrs. Richard Meyers, Mrs. Stan Mather and Mrs. Chester Byrns.

Co-chairmen of the membership drive are Mrs. Thomas Keizer and Mrs. Graydon Jones. Office secretary for the week is Mrs. J.W. Stuber.

Sees Threat To American-Judaism

AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Convinced that the survival of American Judaism is gravely threatened by current tendencies, Gerald Strober has rejoined that faith after being a Christian for 20 years, personally and professionally. He says Judaism now particularly needs defenders.

"This is a time when everyone of Jewish background should stand up and be counted," says Strober, formerly a Pres-bbyterian and a long-time inter-religious affairs consultant to national organizations to foster Jewish-Christian cooperation.

"The very continuity of the Jewish community is threatened," he says. "Jews are in for a hard time in America."

Strober, 38, who was for two years a consultant to the National Conferences of Christians and Jews and for six years consultant to the inter-religious affairs section of the American Jewish Committee, added in an interview.

"American Jewry is now entering its most dangerous phase in 325 years of history in the United States."

He said, the Middle East conflict along with the related energy squeeze on oil, the rise of Arab influence and the pangs of recession in this country have brought a gradually rising current of anti-Semitism.

"Until recently, we've underrated the strong degree of anti-Semitism that lies just below the surface of American life," he said. "In normal time, it doesn't surface. Then comes some crisis, a recession or socio-economic disturbance and the anti-Semitism comes boiling to the surface."

"We're now seeing it happen," he said, citing various instances.

Strober sets forth his case in a book recently issued by Doubleday, "American Jews: Community in Crisis." He contends that Judaism is under assault both from internal weaknesses and external pressures.

He cites various aspects of this erosion, including "quota" systems restricting Jews from jobs and institutions, detection of youths, increased intermarriage, declining Jewish education, and dissipation of Jewish energies on social justice causes to help others that often backfire against Jews.

As an example, he cites long-time Jewish efforts in behalf of civil rights for blacks, with an ensuing upsurge of anti-Jewishness among pro-Arab blacks.

Although Jews historically have worked for reforms considered good for society in general, he said that in the present situation, they should quit exhausting their energies in such causes, and devote all their efforts to bolstering their own strength and continuity.

"We've got to put all our eggs in our own basket today," he said. Strober, of Brooklyn, brought up as Jewish, converted to Christianity at 19, and was educated at conservative Protestant schools, the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago and Gordon College, at Wenham, Mass. He also has a master's degree in religious studies at New York City University.

He was pastor of a Surry, N.H., congregation and later directed the history department at Barrington College in Rhode Island before starting his career as a Christian specialist on relations with Judaism, a role that ended with his recent return to Judaism.

He said the difficulties confronting Judaism didn't determine his decision, but he had been troubled about what he personally was doing to help secure Jewish continuity in a time of danger to it.

Of his decision, he added: "But my feeling is one of joy and happiness, not martyrdom. After 20 years in the Christian world, and a long period of reflection, I finally came to that moment of truth when I had to decide whether I was Jewish or Christian. It's impossible to be both at the same time."

Leaving SJ Church

The Rev. Lawrence Stanton, associate minister of First Congregational United Church of Christ, St. Joseph, for the past 4 1/2 years, has accepted a position as associate minister of Second Congregational United Church of Christ in Grand Rapids.

The Rev. Stanton will be honored at a congregational dinner Wednesday, April 30, and will complete his duties with the St. Joseph church Sunday, May 4.

He has served as minister of Christian Education with responsibilities in children, youth and adult education in the St. Joseph church, where he initiated a Contemporary Celebration and Service which has been held each Sunday for the past four years. The service involves family members in a style that includes creative involvement and worship forms that are created each Sunday.

During the Rev. Stanton's ministry here he helped form the Retired for Fun club, a community group of retired people who meet twice monthly. He is the honorary chaplain for the group.

He has been involved in community activities including serving as a member of St. Joseph Kiwanis club, member of the Child and Family Services of Michigan board, member and vice president of Berrien County Council on Aging and as a leader of a study group for Parents Without Partners.

On the state level, he has served on the Michigan Conference of the United Church of Christ, Division of Christian Nurture and Conference Planning committee and has led workshops on values clarification for state programs as well as for local and community groups.

The Rev. Stanton's wife, Connie, has served as a teacher for the church school, and taught at Gard school for one year, served as director of the Twin Cities Child Care Center, was a reading specialist at Morton school in Benton Harbor and in Project

THE BIBLE

184. Naaman is Healed

The King of Syria greatly admired Naaman, the military commander who had led troops to many sensational victories. Naaman was a leper. It happened that a small girl taken captive during a raid into Israel predicted that the prophet in Samaria could cure Naaman. So the King of Syria sent Naaman to the King of Israel, along with 10 talents of silver, 6,000 pieces of gold, and 10 suits of clothing.

But the King of Israel was vexed, for he could not cure leprosy. However, Elisha asked him to send Naaman to him. When Naaman came to Elisha's house, the prophet "...sent a messenger unto him, saying, Go and wash in Jordan seven times, and thy flesh shall come again to thee, and thou shalt be clean." (II Kings 5:10)

At first Naaman was very angry and refused to bathe seven times in the Jordan River. Finally, however, his men persuaded him to follow Elisha's instructions. When he finished bathing, he was healed, and he offered the rich gifts to Elisha, but the prophet refused them.

ORTHODOX EASTER IS MAY 4

Announce Holy Week Services

Orthodox churches will begin the observance of the Easter season and Holy Week with Palm Sunday services this weekend.

The schedule of services at the Russian Orthodox church, Christ the Saviour, 817 Thresher, Benton Harbor, includes the Vespers and Palm Blessings at 6 o'clock tonight. Palm Sunday, April 27, Divine Liturgy will be at 10 a.m. and will include the Holy Passion of Christ with the reading of Twelve Gospels at 6 p.m.

Holy Thursday is May 1 and on Good Friday, May 2, the vespers of the burial of Christ will be at 2 p.m. The Lamentation will be at 6 p.m. Holy Saturday, May 3, there will be Liturgy on St. Basil the Great at 9 a.m. with the pre-midnight and Resurrection services at 11:30 p.m. with the blessing of Easter food and decorated eggs after the services. Divine Liturgy will be performed at 10 a.m. Easter Sunday, May 4.

Services at the Greek Orthodox church, 725 Broadway, Benton Harbor, will include Palm Sunday, April 27, Service of the Nymphs, 7 p.m.; Holy Monday, April 28, Service of the Nymphs, 7 p.m.; Holy Tuesday, April 29, Service of the Nymphs with the Hymn of the Nun Kassiane, 7 p.m.; Holy Wednesday, April 30, Pre-sanctified Liturgy, 9 a.m., and Sacrament of Holy Unction, 7 p.m.

Holy Thursday, May 1, Liturgy of St. Basil, 9 a.m. and Holy Passion of Christ (Twelve Gospels) 7 p.m.; Holy Friday, May 2, Royal Hours, 9 a.m., Vespers of the Burial of Christ, 3 p.m., and the Lamentations, 7:30 p.m.; Holy Saturday, May 3, Liturgy of St. Basil, 9:30 a.m. and Great Canon, 11 p.m. and Easter Sunday, May 4, Resurrection service at midnight followed by Liturgy of the Resurrection and Vespers of the Agape, 1 p.m.

According to Archpriest Afanasy Leschoff of the Russian Orthodox church in Benton Harbor, the Orthodox Church calculates the date of Easter according to important decisions of the First Ecumenical Council of the Church in 325 AD held in the ancient city of Nicea.

This council, Archpriest Leschoff says, was convened to correct a practice which had begun in the first two centuries of the early Christian era. Because there had been no common agreement concerning the computation and celebration of Christ's Resurrection, in some parts of the Roman Empire Easter was being celebrated on different days of the week. This did not correspond with the Christian interpretation of the time of Christ's Resurrection on the first day of the week.

According to Archpriest Leschoff, the Council of Nicea declared that the date of the Christian Pascha — Easter — should be determined as follows:

1. The Feast of the Resurrection must be celebrated on the Sunday following the first full moon of the vernal equinox. If the full moon occurs on a Sunday, Easter is then the following Sunday.

2. The Resurrection must always be celebrated after the Jewish Passover, this is to insure the proper historical sequence of events as recorded in Holy Scripture, and to make a thorough distinction between two Passovers — Hebrew and Christian.

Archpriest Leschoff says the Orthodox church has rigidly adhered to these regulations since the year 325 AD when they were finalized by the first unified council of the entire church. It has only been since the 16th century that Western churches have celebrated Easter on days different from the Orthodox observance. The Western system of determining Easter was inaugurated in 1582 AD.

Easter sometimes falls on the same date for both Orthodox and Western Christians. This occurred three times in the past decade, 1960, 1963 and 1966, also in 1974. The next common celebration will be observed in 1977.

NEWS OF RELIGIOUS ACTIVITIES

Churches Plan Week-Long Events

Revival Services

Revival services will be held at Lakeshore Church of Christ, St. Joseph, Wednesday, April 30, through Sunday, May 4, according to Richard L. Stacy, minister of the church.

The public is invited to all services which are planned Wednesday through Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. A nursery will be provided.

The visiting evangelist will be Kenneth Washburn of South Bend, Ind. He is a graduate of Cincinnati Bible Seminary and has conducted campaigns throughout the United States and Canada.

During the revival, Washburn's topics will include "The Prevailing Church," "For Me to Live is Christ," "No Turning Back" and "The Return of the Lord Jesus."

Revival music will be led by Fred Garvin of Granger, Ind. Groups from Churches of Christ in the area will also provide music.

To Hold 'Olivet Sunday'

The congregation of First Congregational United Church of Christ, St. Joseph, will celebrate "Olivet College Sunday," April 27, during the 11 a.m. worship service.

As the "Congregational college" in Michigan, Olivet has maintained close ties with the churches since its founding in 1844. Each year, a large number of the Congregational churches in Michigan recognize this relationship by planning an "Olivet Sunday."

The music for this Sunday's observance will be provided by representatives of the college. The Collegium Musicum, a vocal and instrumental group of 30 students will present several numbers. Professor Danford Byrnes, the director, will be organizer for the service.

The speaker will be Dr. Kenneth G. Hance, an emeritus administrator of the college and now a resident of Whitcomb Tower, St. Joseph. His topic will be "For Christ and Humanity," which is the motto of the college.

In addition, there will be a tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Upton of St. Joseph, members of the church, whose gift to the college made possible the "Margaret Upton Conservatory of Music," which was dedicated last fall.

Crusade Speaker

An eight-day Crusade with Dr. Fred Brown of Chattanooga, Tenn., as the guest speaker, will be held at Napier Parkview Baptist church, Benton Harbor.

The meetings are open to the public and will begin at 6 p.m. Sunday, April 27. The meetings will begin at 7:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, April 28-May 2, and at 6 p.m. Sunday, May 4, according to the Rev. Norman H. Vernon, pastor.

There will be no Saturday meeting. Nursery facilities will be available.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Hate Makes Weight

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl, 16 years old, who is 5'3". Two years ago I went on a crash diet and lost 25 pounds. My lowest weight was 74 pounds. I was told I looked like I was going to drop dead any minute, so I started to eat again. I gained 25 pounds, and people said I looked 100 per cent better, but I felt fat.

Last summer I went to a sleep-away camp for eight weeks. During the first month, I lost ten pounds and was very happy about it. Then I began to eat like a pig. I've put on 40 pounds and my mouth is still going.

I went to a hypnotist and he couldn't help me. I joined two clubs for overweight people but couldn't stick with their programs. I tried a psychologist and he said nobody could do it but me. And I CAN'T. Please give me some advice. I hate myself. — Motor Mouth

Dear Mouth: The clue appears in the last three words of your letter. Go to another therapist and find out why you hate yourself and get to work on THAT.

A teenager who has experienced such wild weight fluctuations must have severe emotional problems. Until you get them resolved you'll continue to alternate between very fat and very thin — and neither is healthy.

Incest's Weird

Dear Ann Landers: I have never seen this problem discussed in your column although I've been a steady reader for many years. I don't want to believe you've never before received a letter of this nature. It would make me feel even more uncomfortable.

I'm in love with my brother, and he is in love with me. X is in his early 30s and I am in my middle 20s. We've felt this way about each other for years but it's become more difficult lately because of our bad marriages.

It seems like no one understands X but me, and vice versa. This has drawn us closer together. But the physical desire for one another makes us feel weird and unnatural.

We've never discussed this with anyone but each other. Writing to you is the first attempt to remedy the problem. We both want our marriages to work. Do we need counseling or should we follow our hearts?

So far we have managed to keep our hands off each other. Will this love mixed with desire pass as we get older? Do we need counseling? If so, how does one explain something like this to a spouse?

There isn't another soul in this world I can turn to. Please help. — Blood Is Thicker

Dear Thicker: Incestuous relationships ARE weird and unnatural. You DO need counseling and I hope you both get it immediately.

ANN LANDERS

I can see no reason to tell your respective spouses why you are seeking help. It would serve no useful purpose and it may well destroy for all time any chance to improve your marriages.

Good luck and get going.

Tell 'Cows' Off

Dear Ann Landers: I work in an office building. It is one of the newest and most beautiful in the city. I'm sure it cost at least $10,000,000.

I get sick when I see women employees wipe lipstick on the walls and put their dirty shoes on the beautifully upholstered couches.

Should I say something and make enemies or keep my mouth shut and boil inside? — Need Advice

Dear Ad: Speak up. Someone should tell those cows know that their tacky behavior is not going unnoticed.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 50 cents in coin along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Johnsons Wed 60 Years

SAWYER — Mr. and Mrs. Eric Johnson, Shorewood Hills, Sawyer, who observed their 60th wedding anniversary March 24, were honored at a party in Cocco Beach, Fla., where they have spent their winters for the past 25 years.

The event, held at Bernard's Surf, Cocco Beach, was hosted by their son, Eric Johnson Jr. and his wife, Augusta, of Crawfordville, Ind., and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James (Janet Ann) Riley, Kokomo, Ind.

Johnson and the former Herrina Fiet of Chicago, Ill., were married March 24, 1915, in Chicago.

They have lived in Shorewood Hills since November of 1951, after Johnson's retirement as incorporating president of Inland Wire Products company in Chicago, where he was employed for 32 years.

The couple has six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

By Oswald & James Jacoby
The Lightner slam double is used by practically every expert player in the world. It does have two weaknesses. One is that it may drive the opponents out of a losing slam into a winning one. The other is that when you expect to beat a slam if your partner makes his normal lead, you can't afford to double. The Lightner slam double asks partner for an unusual lead.

East's bidding of today's hand turned out to be very effective. He merely bid one heart the first time, jumped to four hearts next and then stuck in a five-heart bid over North's Blackwood four no trump.

This five-heart bid put a lot of pressure on South. If he and his partner were playing one of those special conventions to show aces after Blackwood is interfered with he could have shown his one ace. But obviously they didn't have any way to do this.

So South studied a while and finally jumped to six spades. If North had the ace instead of the king-queen of diamonds six spades would wheel in, but as you can see both East's aces were winners.

East was sure of this, but he was using the Lightner slam double and the double would call for a club lead. So he passed and took a mere 100 point profit.

Answer Monday

Meat Isn't Wasted

That old proverb, "Waste not, want not!" promises a reward for economy and advocates spending or using resources carefully.

It can apply to the table's utilization of meat. For every 100 lb of meat, 10 lb of the meat bones is completely discarded and utilized, therefore not wasted.

This makes available the most important nutrients contained in meat — high quality proteins, vitamins and minerals.

There may no longer be any reason for the busy executive, male or female, to say there is no time to exercise.

The excuse for not being able to get to the gym because it is time-consuming is understandable.

Today, however, many executives who take an in-the-office sandwich and coffee lunch are now taking advantage of a bright new idea in exercising.

Barbara Pearlman, of New York City, is an energetic enthusiast of home exercising. She has devised a new system of stretching, muscle relaxing, and warm-up exercises which she brings to the office of the busy executive.

Dozens of people working at a hectic, frenetic pace are taking advantage of her in-office exercise routines. Besides increasing the tone of muscles, there is a definite reduction of the tension that builds up during a typical office day.

Miss Pearlman has trained exercise therapists who are now using her techniques in other parts of the country.

More and more people are directing their energies to removing the pollution that has invaded our lives. Young people, particularly, have consolidated their energies to attack factories, power plants and garbage disposal systems that pour polluted gases and soot into our atmosphere.

The harsh, foul-smelling chemicals that affect our lungs and our hearts are no longer accepted. Community forces have become a powerful factor in removing the polluters and preventing the mass contamination.

The efforts of youth in this direction are singularly interesting because, for the moment, they have the least at stake, from a medical point of view.

Teams of young people now report evidence of contamination of our streams, our rivers, our land, and our air. Only when legislation follows their good instinct can our earth return to its rightful heritage of freedom from pollution.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled, "Pay Attention to Your Heart." For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Heart booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

Fernwood Classes Begin

A six-week class in silversmithing, with instructor Kathryn Willard, will begin next week at Fernwood, Range Line road, south of Berrien Springs. The class is open to the public and members.

The public is also invited to Natural Sciences Day Saturday, May 3, from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. There will be a $3 fee for non-members. The event is free to members.

Saturday events will include a bird walk and follow-up lecture with Charles Nelson, director of Sarett Nature Center, Benton Harbor. Louise Kohring, Niles teacher, naturalist and botanist, will lecture on "Flowering Plants."

Frank Twitchell, Rum Village Nature Center, South Bend, Ind., will present a slide show on East Africa.

A lecture on "The World of Mosquitoes" will be given by Ray Beach, of the University of Notre Dame. Beach is a graduate student under Dr. George Craig of the Laboratory of Mosquito Biology who has worked with the World Health Organization.

Harker, will follow with "Reptiles — Dinosaurs — Horned Toads." Dr. Ted Crovello, instructor at the University of Notre Dame, will present a slide lecture called "Plants and Man."

There will also be a sack lunch on Natural Sciences Day. The silversmith class will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. Tuesday, April 29, and Thursday, May 1. The class will cover in detail the processes of sawing, filing, forging, soldering and buffing of copper, brass or silver for either the beginning or the advance student.

Individual projects will be chosen as skills permit with special attention given each student.

The instructor, Kathryn Willard, received a master of fine arts degree from the University of Notre Dame and teaches drawing at the South Bend Art Center and textiles, jewelry and art appreciation at Lake Michigan college.

During May, Fernwood will offer bird walks each morning at 7 a.m. led by Don Harker, naturalist.

This Lean Year Will See More Taxes

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Government belt-tightening rarely means successfully trimming bureaucratic fat. More often, it means asking taxpayers for more money.

Evidence of this is the load of bills introduced in this lean fiscal year to raise taxes on everything from income to liquor and sleeping rooms.

While lawmakers spend thousands of dollars to split up their own state capital offices, they introduce bills to take millions of dollars more in taxes.

It is easier to dream of picking up a few more dollars here and there from taxpayers than to undo some of the mistakes, excesses and inefficiencies lawmakers built into the system over the years.

Cutbacks in state spending have been ordered by Gov. William Milliken, but a number of lawmakers claim they won't do the trick.

The big tax boost already is law and will start taking a larger state income tax bite from your paycheck May 1. A bill passed by the legislature and signed by Milliken will increase the state income tax from 3.9 per cent to 4.6 per cent and raise an estimated $210 million.

That was just the beginning. State Sen. Daniel Cooper, D-Oak Park, sponsored a bill to let local units of government impose a five per cent tax on motel and hotel rooms.

"My bill will be of fantastic financial benefit to all cities in the Oakland, Macomb, Wayne county area," said Cooper.

His tax is ready for Senate floor debate and probable passage. A state law already lets counties with fewer than 600,000 population levy such an accommodations tax.

Under Cooper's bill, cities, villages, charter townships and counties could enact the tax for their jurisdictions with a simple majority vote.

That tax might receive more local support than the usual tax increase because it tends to hit visitors from Toledo and other out-of-towners.

A third and fourth type of tax is being urged on the legislature by Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit. He wants to increase state tax on a pack of cigarettes and a bottle of liquor. That could bring the state $80 million more annually, which would be used to finance public schools, Faxon says.

The current 11-cent-a-pack state cigarette tax would jump to 16 cents, and Michigan's nine per cent liquor tax would rise to 13 per cent, a Faxon aide says. Milliken proposed a $10 per car tax on Wayne, Oakland and Macomb cars to finance a southeast Michigan mass public transit system. That might take some of the satisfaction out of taxing those Toledo residents for a room at the inn.

And passing through dozens of hands are bills legalizing the so called "painless taxes" — money for state and local governments through dog racing, off-track betting and even casino gambling.

Those bills have risen and fallen in the past and they probably will fall again. But observers give one or all of them a better chance this year.

That is because in times of financial hardship, anything short of highway robbery is promoted as a way for the government to make money.

Bond Issue Approved

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The State Board of Education has given final approval to a $250,000 school bond issue for the Kaleva-Norman Dickson school district.

The district is in portions of Manistee, Lake and Mason Counties. If the bond issue passes, funds would be used to build additions to elementary schools at Wellston and Kaleva, the board said Friday.

Claim Filed

SHELTON, Conn. (AP) — An insurance claim of $62.6 million has been filed in connection with the destruction of a rubber products plant here.

The claim, filed Friday, was made two days after 10 men were indicted on conspiracy and bombing charges in connection with the explosions and fire on March 1 that reduced the $10 million plant of Sponge Rubber Products Co. to rubble.

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE LAKE MICHIGAN PERCH

The truth as to why Lake Michigan Perch are not on the menu's of our restaurants, also why it is not available to the consumers at home —

In the early 1960's there was a large supply of perch in the Southern waters of Lake Michigan and we commercial fishermen were harvesting only the large fish — therefore keeping a very good crop of fish coming up each year. Then the Michigan Department of Natural Resources began Making Rule Changes

The first rule to be changed was — no more size limit on perch — take any size — until this perch had to be 8 1/2 inches in length to be legal — next we had a closed season from April 20 till June 1st to allow the perch to spawn. This was abolished. You can't deplete the perch was the D.N.R.'s thought.

We had a rule that no commercial fishing boat could fish only in a 50 mile radius of his home port. This was abolished and also out of state licenses were issued to anyone.

In 1966-1967 we had 26 commercial fish boats in St. Joe, taking an average 40,000 pounds of perch every day, weather permitted. By 1968 the perch were depleted and in 1969 the D.N.R. put a 5 year moratorium on perch to begin in 1970.

Today we have our large supply of perch back in the Southern waters of Lake Michigan. But the D.N.R. has put us gill netters out of business and the only commercial fishermen getting our perch are the gill netters of Indiana, Illinois and Southern Wisconsin. Our Michigan Consumers must depend on these states for a Lake Michigan Perch Dinner!!

Lloyd Mollhagen

P.S. The lake was free of ice this winter and if given a quota, we could have kept these delicious fish on your dinner tables.

Crime Deterrence Council Is Goal Of BH Meeting

Hitler Silver Nets $32,000

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A 99-piece silver service said to have belonged to Adolf Hitler has brought $32,000 at auction. A spokesman for Marsh Galleries, which conducted the auction on Thursday, said both the owner, an Indianapolis physician, and the buyer wished to remain anonymous. He said the owner was a former U.S. Army officer who found the service among Hitler's many strongrooms in his Munich headquarters.

Alfred Edwards, project director of the Crime Prevention Unit (CPU) of the Benton Harbor police department, said the council was to be formed to unify existing block clubs and neighborhood watch groups.

Representatives from each block club and watch group were invited. "It is in hopes that this council will aid the CPU in future programs and at the same time provide the necessary feedback that is needed in program planning," Edwards said.

The council is to provide all the organizations with current progress and various pitfalls that have transpired since the implementation of their respective programs.

"While we are mainly interested in the crime prevention aspect and it's related problems, we can see many other advantages that this council may encounter," Edwards said.

He said the council can serve as an education aid for the various organizations and can afford each group the benefit of knowing how others overcome specific problems.

"It will afford the CPU a direct line of communication to a specific block club or watch group, thus affording the CPU the opportunity to work on group problems as well as individual household problems," he said.

EX-LAWMAKER DIES

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Former Democratic Congressman Chester C. Gorski, 88, president of the Buffalo Common Council for 14 years, died Friday.

SENTENCED: Former Oklahoma Gov. David Hall and his wife Jo face the press Friday in Oklahoma City, Okla., after he and Dallas financier W.W. (Doc) Taylor were sentenced to prison in a bribery-extortion case. Hall drew three years each of four counts and Taylor 18 months on each of three counts, both men's terms to run concurrently. Van Buren's Valuation Goes Up 6.37%

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — The 1975 state equalized valuation (SEV) of property in Van Buren county has risen by over $17 million, a 6.37 per cent jump over 1974, according to a report released by Richard Raymond, county equalization director.

The report lists the county's 1975 SEV as $287,482,862, of $17,204,209 over the 1974 figure of $270,278,653.

By comparison, the increase from 1973 to 1974 was only $6,248,739, but Raymond said he attributes the 1975 jump more to the fact large amounts of property were re-appraised, than any particular boost in property values.

"In the City of South Haven and four or five of the townships, all the property was re-assessed," he said. "In some areas this hadn't been done for several years."

"It had the effect of making the assessments more uniform. If a person had property that is worth $100,000 he's being assessed on that amount, instead of $25,000 or some other figure," Raymond said.

Although the ratio which each township assesses at may vary, a factor is introduced so that all property is taxed at 50 per cent of true cash value.

The City of South Haven showed the largest rise in SEV, going from $29,336,281 in 1974 to $36,094,150 in 1975, an increase of 23.04 per cent.

Only two municipalities, Covert and Bloomingdale townships, showed decreases. Covert fell from $40,902,789 to $34,693,023, a 17.9 per cent drop, while Bloomingdale went down 5.31 per cent, from $7,424,612 to $7,050,106.

Raymond said the change in Covert township came about because of a drop in projected income for the Palisades nuclear plant, which was shut down for over a year for repairs until early this month.

In Bloomingdale, property was assessed at a higher ratio in order to gain more uniformity, and this had the effect of lowering the SEV, Raymond said.

Following are the 1975 SEV's for Van Buren municipalities, with 1974 figures in parentheses:

Townships — $7,502,546 ($6,772,001); Antwerp, $23,907,639 ($21,422,335); Arlington, $7,454,288 ($6,594,038); Bangor, $7,962,538 ($7,145,681); Bloomingdale, $7,050,106 ($7,424,612); Columbia, $9,691,688 ($8,474,182); Covert, $34,693,023 ($40,902,789); Decatur, $13,203,759 ($12,994,611); and Geneva, $7,875,823 ($7,736,112).

Also, Hamilton, $4,963,909 ($4,661,164); Hartford, $15,648,362 ($13,162,299); Keeler, $15,681,603 ($14,154,811); Lawrence, $10,281,902 ($9,547,622); Paw Paw, $27,406,304 ($27,245,269); Pine Grove, $6,890,845 ($6,790,806); Porter, $10,323,133 ($9,211,203); South Haven, $16,339,735 ($14,544,366); and Waverly, $6,190,952 ($5,929,879).

Cities — Bangor, $8,677,463 ($7,830,074); Gobles, $2,286,530 ($2,218,824); Hartford, $7,336,487 ($6,940,468); and South Haven, $36,094,150 ($29,336,281).

Council Battles With Young

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit City Council may win its battle to retain its budget powers after clashing with Mayor Coleman Young over interpretation of the new city charter. Corporation Counsel Kermit Butler says his research reveals the Council was "absolutely right" that the new accounting system under the charter wasn't intended to alter their fiscal powers. He said his research is not complete, but promised to a written opinion would be forthcoming next Wednesday.

AREA POLICE ROUNDUP

Pair Of Teens, Juvenile Charged With Break-In

Benton township police Friday arrested three people, including a juvenile boy, in connection with a break-in April 17 at the Cass dairy store, 888 Euclid avenue.

They were among eight people arrested for various offenses by Twin Cities area police Friday and early this morning.

Booked by township police on charges of breaking and entering were Thomas LeRoy Simpson, 17, of 2291 Lawrence drive, Benton Heights; John Paul Yakel, 18, of 904 Lions Park drive, St. Joseph; and the boy, 16, of Benton township.

Police said Yakel was arrested on a warrant, issued after an investigation, while a warrant is to be sought for Simpson. The boy is to be petitioned to juvenile court, police said. The arrests were made at township police headquarters after the three were asked to come in for questioning.

A quantity of food and cigarettes was reported stolen from the store, but most was found on the ground across the street, police said.

State police from the Benton Harbor post Friday morning arrested a Miami, Fla., man and confiscated a small quantity of suspected heroin after stopping an auto without license plates on I-94 at Napier avenue, Benton township.

Charged with possession of heroin was Carl R. Malino, 29. He demanded a preliminary hearing when arraigned later Friday before Fifth District Judge Ronald J. Taylor. Malino was reported lodged in jail when he failed to post $5,000 bond.

Berrien Metro crime unit officers Friday arrested a Benton Harbor man reported sought on a bad check felony warrant by authorities at Dixon, Ill. Apprehended while seated in an auto in the Fairplain plaza lot was Larry Lee Harden, 26, of 203 South Fair avenue. He was to be returned to Dixon.

Metro officers said the the warrant accuses Harden of uttering and publishing a check allegedly stolen from a mailbox and cashed to purchase car tires.

Troopers early today stopped a speeding car on I-94, Benton township and arrested two men, after confiscating a handgun and suspected marijuana. Booked on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and violating the controlled substance act was Raymond Koo, 24, Battle Creek. Booked on a charge of violating the controlled substance act was Paul Luk Hong Yeung, 23, Goleta, Calif.

Troopers Friday night booked Gregory D. Lasky, 25, Detroit, on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, after confiscating a handgun and ammunition from a car stopped for speeding on I-94, Benton township.

Troopers and Benton township police about 11:15 p.m. Friday apparently foiled a burglary attempt at the office of Dr. James Maxwell, D.O., 2332 Plaza drive, Benton township. A door was broken, but the intruder apparently fled before entry was gained. Police responded to an alarm.

St. Joseph police Friday investigated the reported theft of seven juniper bushes, planted around McDonald's drive-in, 2812 Niles avenue. Value was reported at $20 to $25 each.

St. Joseph police also were called to senior high school, where several boys' lockers were ransacked and two wallets stolen. Wallets were owned by Gregory Priebe, 1341 Susan drive; and John Bicanich, 856 Vinewood. One reportedly had $2 and papers, and the other only papers.

Kenneth Doroh, an employee of St. Joseph Catholic school, told police BB pellets were fired at his pickup truck, parked in the 1200 block of Pearl street, near the school. Broken were the windshield and side window.

In another act of vandalism, William Beeler told Benton Harbor police Friday that a rock was thrown through a window at his home, 1072 Jennings avenue.

Communists Lose In Portugal

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portugal's moderate left won the first elections since last April's revolution with a landslide victory today over the Communist party. Led by the Socialists, the three moderate parties won 70 per cent of the votes cast on Friday for members of a constitutional assembly. The Communist front, a dominant force in the nation since the military overthrew the old rightist regime, was a poor third with about 15 per cent of the vote.

Flood Damage

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Last weekend's flood destroyed 175 homes in Lansing and damaged about 4,300 others. Mayor Gerald Graves said Friday. A total of 186 businesses were damaged in the worst flood since 1947, figures released Friday show. The flood caused $6.2 million in damage in the city alone, Graves said.

Eleven Dead In Mexico Bank Robbery

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A group of leftist guerrillas led by a "dark and pretty" woman machine-gunned at least 11 persons to death in a bank holdup that got them $12,000, police and witnesses said.

Eight policemen were shot to death Friday during a wild chase by 36 police cars and two helicopters across the city. Two suspects were captured, one of them wounded.

Police said the others killed included two passersby and a bank teller. Two others were wounded.

Police Chief Daniel Gutierrez

STAIN OF DEATH: A Mexico City policeman armed with a Thompson submachine gun looks at a pool of blood in a Mexico City bank where heavily-armed bandits robbed the bank of an estimated $12,000 Friday morning. Eleven people were killed and four wounded in the twin robbery. (AP Wirephoto)

Santos told reporters the two captives said they were members of the Red Brigade of the 23rd of September Communist League, a guerrilla band, advocating violent revolution.

The young bandits — eight men and four women — attacked the Banco de Comercio branch shortly after it opened for business.

Witnesses said some of the robbers fired machine guns and pistols as they ran inside, while others remained outside firing at police cars.

"They came in with guns blazing all over the place," said the deputy bank manager, Maria de Los Angeles Perez. "There were about 50 gunshots. I threw myself to the floor and everyone else did the same thing. I was really scared and thought I was going to get shot. There was a lot of blood around. I saw the body of a policeman on the ground shot in the head. It was all very fast. It must have happened in less than five minutes."

The bandits demanded money from a teller and then shot him in the stomach, fatally wounding him.

"A woman appeared to be the chief," said Rodolfo Martinez, another bank officer. "She was dark and pretty with a very strong voice." Other witnesses said she was the one who emptied the cash drawers.

Outside the bank a witness said some of the bandits "stuck their guns in the windows of a patrol car and fired a lot of shots at the policemen inside."

A private guard in a grocery store across the street ran out when he heard the shooting. "One guy came up behind him and put a pistol to the back of the guard's neck and shot him twice," the store manager said.

Another burst of fire killed an architect getting into his car. The police account said the bandits used three getaway cars including a commandeered taxi, and blazed away with their machine guns, hitting policemen and pedestrians.

One policeman was killed and another wounded five miles from the bank. The machine gun fire hit a helicopter but it landed safely.

Two bandits abandoned a getaway car and stormed into a house, shooting the owner in the face. He was in critical condition. Police found an abandoned getaway car with two time bombs, a hand grenade and revolutionary pamphlets calling for antigovernment demonstrations May 1.

The 23rd of September Communist League, named for a shootout between guerrillas and soldiers a few years ago, has claimed responsibility for two bank robberies Dec. 10 in which six policemen died.

Communists Reject Huong, Minh Believed 'Acceptable'

SAIGON (AP) — President Tran Van Huong, rejected by the Communists as a negotiating partner, offered today to resign to enable the National Assembly to name Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh as a neutralist president.

As the assembly began an urgent debate on Huong's offer, the military command reported shelling attacks south and west of the capital but no major fighting.

The Viet Cong delegation at its weekly news conference refused to say whether they would enter into peace talks with Minh, but the retired general is believed to be acceptable to them.

Sources close to Minh said if he became president he would call for an immediate cease-fire and appoint a "cabinet of reconciliation."

In Washington, U.S. officials said a cease-fire in Vietnam and the start of peace negotiations could come early next week. It was learned that Huong's offer to quit was worked out by Saigon leaders and U.S. Ambassador Graham Martin.

Huong, 71, succeeded to the presidency last Monday when Nguyen Van Thieu resigned in an effort to clear the way for peace talks with the Communists, whose forces have overrun three-fourths of South Vietnam and are in position to take Saigon.

But the Viet Cong rejected Huong as a puppet of Thieu and demanded a complete change of government.

A news blackout from Cambodia continued on the last day of a three-day celebration of the capture of Phnom Penh by the Communist-led Khmer Rouge.

South Vietnam's battlefields remained quiet today. The Saigon command reported shelling at Tay Ninh and Trang Bang northwest of the capital and at an air field in the Mekong Delta to the south. It reported no casualties.

The command also reported three ground engagements south of Saigon and listed 68 North Vietnamese and four government troops killed.

It is generally conceded that North Vietnamese troops massed around the capital could capture Saigon any time. But the Communists have held back, offering hope that a negotiated settlement was possible, if a suitable South Vietnamese government takes over.

"We don't have much time," said Senator Le Chau Loc, a Roman Catholic. "The other side has shown some restraint but I would guess we only have 24 to 48 hours to decide."

WMU Ups Out-State Tuition, Fees

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Tuition, room and board and student apartment rental fees have been increased for out-of-state students attending Western Michigan University beginning next fall.

The school's board of trustees voted unanimously in favor of the increases on Friday, citing higher costs for wages, food, utilities and maintenance.

Undergraduate out-of-state tuition will rise $7 per credit hour to $33. Graduate out-of-state tuition will be up $7 to $68 per credit hour.

University room and board will increase $40 per semester, while student apartment rental fees are being boosted $15 a month.

All the increases take effect Sept. 1.

School officials said the $30,000 expected to be gained from the hikes will go for foreign student financial aid.

Chicago's Schools Chief Quits

CHICAGO (AP) — Dr. James F. Redmond says he does not want his contract renewed as superintendent of the Chicago public school system.

Redmond, 58, who headed Chicago's school system for nine years, has been criticized in recent years by some board members and citizens for what they said was a lack of leadership in solving shortcomings in the public school system. In making his announcement Friday, Redmond criticized the school board members for what he described as said was constant bickering and meddling in administrative affairs of the schools.

Redmond said he felt the present school board was not compatible and not able to work together for the improvement of the schools.

School Workshop Attracts 225

Approximately 225 parents and educators attended a workshop yesterday and today sponsored by the Benton Harbor Area schools office of compensatory programs.

The purpose of the workshop, titled "Bridging the Gap Between Promises and Performances," was to explain Title I federally-funded programs operated by the school, according to Gladys E. Burks, workshop coordinator.

The fourth annual workshop was held at the Benton Harbor Holiday Inn, M-138, south of Benton Harbor.

The workshop also provided an opportunity for parents and educators to come together and formally discuss pertinent topics pertaining to their children, Mrs. Burks said.

Several of the sessions dealt with topics concerning problems between parents and their children. St. Joseph Atty. Robert Yings conducted a workshop yesterday entitled "Your Child and the Law," which covered problems involved in keeping children out of trouble with cooperation from the school, parents and court agencies.

Beryl Silvernale, R.N., director of the school's child care part of the School-Aged Mothers program, discussed child abuse. She outlined steps to avoid the causes of child abuse and agencies that help parents with child abuse problems.

Benton Harbor Mayor Charles Joseph addressed parents and educators at the workshop meeting yesterday. He emphasized the function of the schools in building a better community.

Concert Tickets On Sale At Door

Tickets will be available at the door for the Roger Williams concert which will be presented Sunday, April 27, at 7:30 p.m. at the Lakeshore high school auditorium, according to Mrs. Gene Maddock and Mrs. Frederick Thomas, ticket chairmen.

The concert is being sponsored by Civic Benefit club with proceeds earmarked for The Link crisis intervention center in St. Joseph. The center serves youth in Berrien county by offering them help in times of emotional and physical crisis.

Williams, pianist and recording star, performs mostly "pop" music but includes some touches of jazz, rock, and classical music in his appearances.

Tickets are $7.50 for adults and $3 for students.

Michigan To Get Vietnam Orphans

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Some 40 to 50 Vietnamese war orphans between the ages of 5 and 9 are soon to find new homes in Michigan.

They are scheduled to be airlifted from the Far East and arrive in Travis Air Force Base near San Francisco at 8:45 p.m. EST Saturday, a spokesman for Gov. William Milliken said Friday.

Earlier, officials were informed, the youngsters would arrive in the United States late Friday or early Saturday and perhaps be brought to Michigan on Saturday.

The children will be united with their adoptive parents at the Maxey Boys Training School in Whitmore Lake near Detroit Metro Airport.

Two weeks ago about 14 orphans from war-ravaged Vietnam were airlifted to Michigan and placed with new families.

Milliken urged President Ford to make Michigan a haven for the war orphans.

The governor plans to stay at his Traverse City home for the weekend, said an aide.

The children were scheduled to arrive in California sometime late Friday or early Saturday and to come to Michigan "as soon as possible," said Al Sandner, a press aide to Milliken.

The new planeload of children was to be met at an Air Force base in northern California by at least two doctors and Jerry Hicks, director of Michigan's Asian orphan task force.

Voter Registration Bill Is Now Law

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill permitting voter registration at branch offices of the secretary of state has been signed into law by Gov. William Milliken.

The measure permits Michigan residents to fill out a voter registration application when applying for or renewing their driver's licenses. The new law takes effect July 1.

Milliken said the program would reach all those persons currently eligible but not registered to vote "without jeopardizing the securities needed to insure accurate vote counting."

The new law is intended to encourage voting by making it easier to register. It will reach 90 per cent of all Michigan residents within any three-year period, supporters claimed.

A resident would fill out an application when renewing his driver's license. That would be sent to the local clerk, who would verify it and send the person a voter registration certificate.

The measure also is intended to help clerks keep up-to-date records on active voters.

Milliken also signed three other bills, including one which extends the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims to include appeals from veterans whose Vietnam bonus applications are rejected.

Another new law provides that a patient of a licensed substance abuse treatment agency may authorize the release of treatment information to a third party.

It is intended to permit the release of ration to third parties involved in the treatment process including courts which have placed the patient on probation contingent upon participation in such a program.

Students End 4-Day Takeover

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Minority students ended a peaceful two-day takeover of the Brown University administration building after university officials agreed to most of their demands.

The student rebellion ended Friday night, 38 hours after about 40 black and Latin American students seized control of University Hall to protest budget cuts they said would make the Ivy League school "richer and whiter."

The students evacuated University Hall as a joint announcement of the settlement by student representatives and university officials was being made at a news conference in a nearby school building.

Mrs. Salvadore, former varsity tennis coach and cheerleading coach, is a physical education instructor. She has been in the St. Joseph system 12 years.

Five board members attended the special 23-minute meeting — President Ray M. Dumke, Vice President James Mason, Treasurer William Glines and Trustees Beverly Linn and John Pielmeier. Absent and reported out of the city were Secretary Linda Griswold and trustee Freda S. Sparks.

Also present were representatives of the St. Joseph Education association including Richard Maxam, president-elect, and Mrs. Aketa Carman of Berrien Springs, executive director of Region 5-F of the Michigan Education association.

All votes taken by the board were unanimous although Mrs. Linn abstained on the motion to withdraw charges from personnel records.

Dumke asked if anyone had any comment. When no one spoke the meeting was adjourned.

FBI Interrupts His Castro Visit

By DONALD H. DAVIS

Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — "He said he had big troubles, lots of problems, his own problems," said one passenger of the man who hijacked a United Air Lines 727 jet over Baltimore, Md.

The man, who declared he "wanted to see Castro," was arrested during a refueling stop here when his last three hostages sneaked off the plane.

He was identified as Frank Page Covey, age 43 or 44, of Richmond, Va. He was charged with air piracy.

United officials said the hijacker allowed the 80 passengers and three stewardesses to deplane when the airliner landed in Atlanta, leaving him on board with the captain, first officer and flight engineer.

"Other United people managed to get the hijacker's attention. While he was occupied, the cabin crew managed to get around him. They used the rear cabin stairs to deplane," said John Philp, the airline's regional public relations manager.

James O'Keefe, assistant special agent in charge of the Atlanta FBI office, and another FBI agent then boarded the plane and arrested the man without incident.

O'Keefe said the hijacker kept one hand in an airline flight bag and threatened to blow the plane up if he was not flown to Cuba. The agent said he found no explosives and no weapon when he arrested Covey.

The plane was United flight 344, which originated in Los Angeles and made stops in Birmingham, Ala., Charlotte, N.C., and Raleigh, N.C., enroute to Newark, N.J.

The last attempted hijacking of a domestic flight took place last Jan. 13 when a passenger attempted to divert an Eastern Airlines flight to San Juan, P.R. He was captured after the plane made an emergency refueling stop at Dulles International Airport, near Washington.

Passengers said throughout the two-hour ordeal that Covey, tall and well-built, talked and drank alcoholic drinks served him by crew members.

One passenger, Larry Ream of Wayne, N.J., said, "He was threatening on one hand. On the other, he said he didn't want to hurt anybody."

Mort Schneider of West Orange, N.J., seated only a dozen feet from Covey, said "the guy was drunk when he boarded the plane. He kept on drinking the whole time."

O'Keefe said Covey appeared drunk when he was arrested.

"He told me he just wanted to see Castro," said the FBI agent.

The passengers said there was no panic aboard the plane and praised the stewardesses, who told those aboard they did not believe the hijacker had a weapon or a bomb in his bag. "The stewardesses were great," said Harry Smith of Ramsey, N.J. "Everybody was calm."

One of the stewardesses, Shannon Burgess of Newark, commented, "For a hijacking, it was pretty calm."

Ninety minutes after Covey was arrested, 54 of the passengers and the six crew members took off for Newark, arriving just before midnight, 4½ hours late. Airline officials said six passengers chose to take flights Saturday morning.

Mortgage Interest Lid To Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is raising the maximum interest rate for federally insured home loans, marking a reversal of a trend toward lower interest rates that economists had hoped would help revive the housing industry and the general national economy.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) announced Friday that the ceiling on government-guaranteed mortgages will rise by one-half of one percent to 8½ percent, effective Monday.

For a home buyer with a 30-year, $30,000 mortgage backed by the Federal Housing Administration or the Veterans Administration, the boost will mean a $10.50 increase in monthly payments.

Woman-Led Cub Pack Stripped Of Franchise

JESSUP, Md. (AP) — A Cub Scout pack in this community has been disenfranchised from the national scouting movement because its pack leader was a woman.

A spokesman for the Boy Scouts of America said Friday that Pack 471 lost its charter last month when it was discovered that Marjorie Ripple was pack leader. Scout bylaws require the post be held by a man.

Labor Converges On Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — The largest group of labor demonstrators to converge on Washington since the Great Depression of the 1930s is demanding major federal action to combat unemployment. AFL-CIO officials predict at least 50,000 workers will take part in the rally planned for today at Robert F. Kennedy Stadium. Also planned are a march of electrical workers past the White House and another march from the Capitol building to the stadium. "You can put on the roskest colored glasses you want, but the fact remains that unemployment around the 10 per cent level is a disaster for America and its people, a needless disaster," said United Steelworkers President I. W. Abel in remarks he had prepared for the rally.

Lottery May Go On TV

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's weekly $200,000 lottery drawing would compete with such comparative prime time television pilots as "The Price Is Right." If state officials have their way, Gus Harrison, lottery bureau director, is negotiating with five Detroit-area TV stations for a 7:30 p.m. prime time television slot for the big weekly lottery drawing. He has asked for cost estimates and production schedules by next week and expects to make a decision within two weeks, said Dave Hanson, a lottery bureau spokesman. The stations are WJBK-TV, WWJ-TV, WXYZ-TV, WKBD-TV, and WTOM-TV, a new UHF station, Hanson said. The station that gets the lottery program would arrange to have a rebroadcast on television stations around the state, Hanson said.

Ford Cuts Jobless Ranks

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. says it will close one assembly plant next week, while stepping up production and reducing the number of blue-collar layoffs. The number of auto workers off the job next week will be 178,369, from a total industry production workforce of 712,000. It is the lowest jobless toll since the week of Dec. 8, 1974. Ford's jobless ranks will be the lowest since last November 11, the firm said, and will decline slightly from 24,900 a week ago to 24,730 next week. Industry-wide unemployment will be at 24,730 from 24,190 last week. Ford said its Los Angeles car plant will be closed next week, idling 3,100 workers, while the Norfolk, Va. plant will reopen after a one-week shutdown and 3,000 will return to their jobs. Some 175 hourly production workers at Ford will be recalled from indefinite furlough beginning Monday.

Young May Defy Court

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Mayor Coleman Young hinted Friday that he might defy a judge's order which prohibits the city from laying off 1,128 policemen and firemen on May 1. Young also demanded that Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Michael Stacey, who issued a temporary injunction Thursday, disqualify himself because of a "conflict of interest." Young charged Stacey with "playing fast and loose with the welfare of the city for his own political gain." The mayor said Stacey was a member of a law firm five years ago which handled cases for the Detroit Police Officers Association and therefore should disqualify himself from the case. "He had no right to even consider this case. I challenge him to step down," Young said.

Lake Dwellers Find Insurance Payments Slow

WYOMING, Mich. (AP) — Shoreline property owners who bought federal flood insurance to protect against losses from beach erosion are having trouble collecting.

"It looks like the whole thing could turn out to be a hoax," says Mrs. Dean Asselin of St. Joseph, president of the Lake Shore Property Owners Association.

Rep. Sidney Yates, D-Ill., who sponsored changes in the National Flood Insurance Act two years ago says he intended the changes to cover losses from erosion.

But complaints of failure to pay are flooding the Federal Insurance Administration. Joseph Coughlin, an agency spokesman, said the hotbed of complaints is Western Michigan.

Private insurance companies selling the federally supported flood insurance are not liable for gradual erosion, but damage from high lake levels and storms is supposed to be covered.

Coughlin said his agency wants to decide borderline cases in favor of policyholders. However, he conceded insurance companies closed 472 Michigan claims for flood insurance last year without any payment. He said he is uncertain how many involved erosion losses.

Russell VanderWerp of Wyoming lost his cottage along Grand Haven's Slickney Ridge to the waves and says he cannot collect for his losses.

Last June, VanderWerp's $30,000 cottage toppled off the ridge because of erosion even though he spent five years and more than $5,000 trying to protect it from the advancing waves.

VanderWerp said he filed a claim against his insurance company but drew only a one-sentence denial from a company adjuster. He contended four neighbors along the ridge received similarly curt denials.

Calling the General Adjustment Bureau in Muskegon for details of the rejection, VanderWerp reported, brought only a reply that he could hire a lawyer if he wanted more information.

So, VanderWerp is pressing state and federal officials for a clearer interpretation of the protection he thought he bought after FIA sent agents to Michigan in 1973 to drain up customers for federal flood insurance.

News stories at the time quoted the agents as saying the insurance covered "virtually all home damage caused by wave action."

VanderWerp insisted he has not lost hope. "I'm convinced that if the policy is interpreted properly, I'll collect and we'll all collect."

GAO Hits Nuclear Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Accounting Office, investigatory arm of Congress, says the Army and Navy have been transporting nuclear warheads without adequate security precautions against accidental damage or possible theft by terrorists.

In a classified report, an edited summary of which was made public this week, the GAO advised Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger to consider using more secure equipment and review transportation methods employed by the Energy Research and Development Administration, formerly the Atomic Energy Commission.

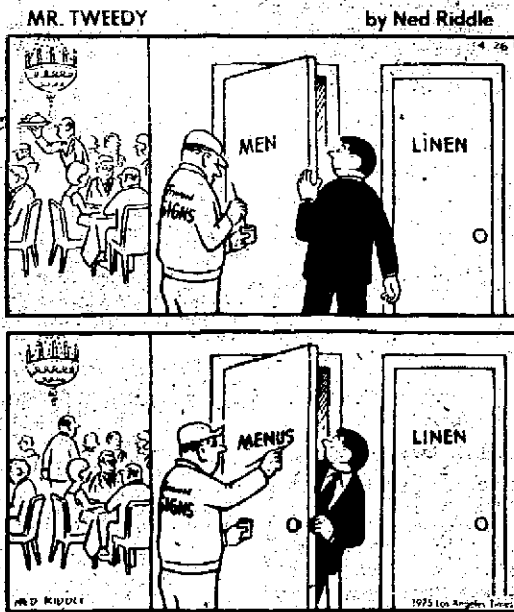

Auto Layoffs To Decline

DETROIT (AP) — Layoffs in the nation's auto industry will decline by at least 20,000 next week as the car companies recall workers from indefinite furloughs to step up production.

The recalls will leave at most 172,000 of 712,000 hourly workers on indefinite layoff, the lowest number since January. Open-ended layoffs peaked at 215,000 last month.

Bandit Rejects $15 As 'Not Worth It'

'BARN' WITH A 'SILO'

Home Is What You Make It

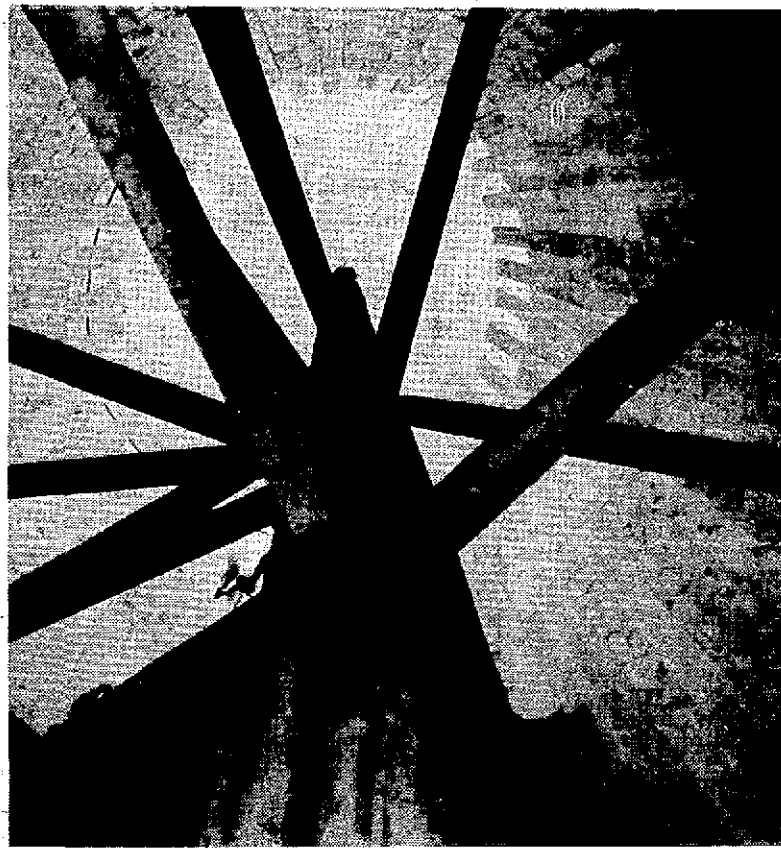

BARN OR HOUSE? Unusual barn-like design of house under construction in Weesaw township has attracted attention of passersby. House and accompanying 40 acres of land are owned by Mr. and Mrs. Pat Civitello, Bloomfield Hills, Mich. Silo at left, and connected to home, will house small observation tower from which Lake Michigan can be seen. Home is located on Wagner road, just off Cleveland avenue. Civitello said he chose hill for construction site because of panorama it commands. Barn design fits naturally rural community in which there are number of other barns, he said. General contractor is Zielke construction, Bridgman. (Staff photos)

SILO'S PANORAMA: This is eastern view that will be available from silo of Pat Civitello home when exterior construction is completed. Grapes are part of 24-acre vineyard Civitello will have harvested this year. He said he and his family plan to spend free time in home. Family includes nine-year-old daughter, only one of three daughters now living at home. New home uses best characteristics of some nine other homes in which Civitellos have previously lived, several which Civitello also designed.

INSIDE OUT: This is interior view of observation silo that is important part of home being built by Pat Civitello of Bloomfield Hills, Mich. Atop silo will be observation room from which panorama of countryside and Lake Michigan will be available. Photo shows huge wooden pole (being supported now by 2 by 4's) around which steps will circle upwards. There will be entranceways to silo from outside and from basement and first and second floors of home. Exterior construction is to be completed by early summer and family will finish interior themselves.

LOOKING WEST: Openings for huge sliding glass doors and upstairs windows look towards west and evening sunset in this view of Weesaw township home owned by Pat Civitello and his wife of Bloomfield Hills, Mich. Two-bedroom home will have 1,664 square feet of living space on lower level and unfinished loft will cover half of upper level. Civitello, a Chrysler corporation employee, said he plans to finish home's interior himself over next 10 years and then retire to home. Sliding glass doors will lead out onto deck. Sliding wood barn doors can be closed to cover glass doors. Civitello designed home himself. Barn-like structure will be painted red, silo will be white.

Petitions
Millage Election

THREE OAKS — Petitions signed by an estimated 600 people asking for a second vote on a once-defeated property tax levy to finance school operations were submitted to River Valley school officials yesterday.

Supt. Joseph Caimi said the petitions were submitted by Richard Bartz who headed the petition drive.

The petitions, and a possible second millage vote, will be discussed when the school board meets at 8 p.m., Monday night, at the high school auditorium, Caimi said.

He said the board has until May 12 to put any tax proposal on the June 9, annual school election ballot, but he hopes a decision on a second vote is made next week.

The petition drive was launched after school officials outlined how many school programs would have to be cut by the March defeat of the 3.824 mill tax levy the school had sought.

Included in the cutback was the dismissal of 18 teachers.

The tax levy proposal, defeated by a 933 to 478 margin, would have raised $355,000 in local and state aid funds for operations for the coming school year.

Jail For 3 Dads
Owing
$7,000

Two delinquent fathers owing more than $7,000 in back child support for three children on ADC were ordered jailed for 60 days each this week in Berrien circuit court.

According to George Westfield, Berrien friend of the court:

Judge Chester J. Byrns found James D. Lewis, of Watervliet, in contempt of court for $4,776 arrears for two children on ADC, placed him on two years probation, and ordered that the first 60 days be spent in jail. Byrns ordered that Lewis is to be released for 60 days after the sentence to find work, and if he does not find employment, he's to spend another 60 days in jail.

The judge also ordered that if Lewis finds work, Lewis is to sign a wage assignment in accordance with his wages, plus $5 weekly on the arrearage.

John R. Haney, of 1823 Northfield drive, Niles, was also held in contempt, placed on two years probation, and sentenced to 60 days in jail by Byrns for $2,558 arrears for one child on ADC. Byrns likewise ordered that Haney be released for 60 days to find work, and if he finds none, Haney is to serve another 60 days in jail. If he gets employment, Haney is to sign a wage assignment of $31 weekly child support and $3 weekly on arrears.

APPOINTMENT: Dr. Benedict R. D'Amato of New Buffalo has been appointed to the state Board of Chiropractic Examiners by Gov. William G. Milliken. He succeeds Dr. Hoyt E. Dunn of Traverse City for term to expire June 18, 1978. Dr. D'Amato's appointment is one of four to board of examiners to be submitted to state senate for confirmation.

Van Buren Chief Recalls Growth Of Schools

LAWRENCE — Elmer E. VanDyke, superintendent of the Van Buren intermediate school district for the past 23 years, has announced his retirement effective Dec. 31, 1975.

He said he will be succeeded by Ernest Shaw, assistant superintendent since 1964. Official action on Shaw's appointment will be made at the intermediate board meeting May 7, VanDyke said.

VanDyke's retirement will mark the end of nearly 37 years in educational service to Van Buren county, including four years each as Covert high school principal and superintendent.

He became intermediate superintendent in 1952, replacing the late George Schutt.

Since then, the district has grown from over 90 primarily one-room schools to include 11 high schools. The intermediate district has a staff of 194 and a budget topping $3 million annually.

VanDyke said his retirement is timed to coincide with the opening of the Van Buren Skills Center, which is expected to be completed in December.

Shaw, 50, said in an interview that among the challenges facing the district were the opening of the Skills Center, and implementation of mandatory state programs in special, career, and bilingual education.

A native of Shoals, Ind., Shaw holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Indiana State university, and has also done postgraduate work in special education at Western Michigan university.

General Named
Parade Marshal

Air Force Brig. Gen. John M. Rose Jr. has been named an honorary grand marshal for Bloomington's Grand Floral Parade May 10, according to William Starbuck, parade chairman.

Gen. Rose is commander of the defense logistics service center at Burke's Creek. The center is part of the defense support system working with other federal agencies, including NATO and foreign governments. Gen. Rose joined the U.S. Army Air Corps in 1943. He has had assignments all over the world before taking his present post in 1972.

He is a command pilot with numerous decorations.

The Grand Floral Parade of more than 100 units will stop off at 1 p.m. at State and Elm streets, St. Joseph, and proceed into Benton Harbor.

In Crash

PAW PAW — Eugene Workman, 54, rural Paw Paw, a flagman for the state highway department, suffered a broken leg about 1 p.m. yesterday when a car skidded into him at an I-94 road repair site near CR-681, according to state police at the Paw Paw post.

He was reported in satisfactory condition this morning at Borgess hospital in Kalamazoo.

Police said Mrs. Evelyn Wiley, 28, Detroit, was ticketed for driving too fast for road conditions.

Rich Connors Is Finished With Challenges This Year

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Jimmy Connors will have pushed his 1975 earnings to at least a half-million dollars by the time this day is over, and he says he may not play any more challenge matches this year for fear of overexposure.

The 22-year-old left-hander from Belleville, Ill., already has won $200,000, including his payoff from a victory over Rod Laver in their $100,000 winner-take-all match on Feb. 2.

Today he faced another Australian, John Newcombe, with the winner expected to pick up $500,000 and the loser at least $300,000 from the internationally televised match.

"Right now we could overdo these challenge matches," Connors said. "We want to get people interested in tennis and show them the aspect of competition, but not do it too often."

The young southpaw's manager, Bill Riordan, said there have been offers from South America, Sweden and Australia for challenge matches.

Connors faces the problem of income tax even though this year is not yet one-third over. Another challenge match could be played primarily for Uncle Sam.

Television expected 50 to 75 million viewers throughout the world to watch the Connors-Newcombe battle, some on live television via satellite, and others by delayed telecasts.

The combination of $250,000 put up by the hotel where the match is to be played, $600,000 by CBS for United States consumption and foreign television revenues boosted Connors-Newcombe over $1 million — making it the richest tennis match ever played.

Conference Championships Start Sunday Bullets Semifinal Winners

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — It has been said that the last 10 minutes are the only ones that really count in a pro basketball game. The Washington Bullets don't see it that way.

The Bullets came out roaring Friday night, ripping off fast breaks and forcing Buffalo out of its normal patterns as they beat the Braves 115-96 to clinch their National Basketball Association Eastern Conference semifinal series, 4-3.

Playoff series to determine the two conference champions begin Sunday, with Washington at Boston in the Eastern Conference and Chicago at Golden State in the Western Conference.

Washington grabbed a 4-3 advantage with 9:39 left to play in the opening period and never relinquished the lead while hitting half its shots and taking away Buffalo's torrid running attack.

"They came out the way we should have come out," said Braves Coach Jack Ramsay. "They established the tempo with those early fast breaks and played very aggressively."

Coach K.C. Jones of Washington said the Bullets' game plan was to open up their offense and take control as soon as possible.

"We decided we were going to run a little bit," Jones said. "In Thursday's practice we worked on basic plays and said, 'That's the way we're going to do it.'"

The Bullets' offense, which stalled in a sixth-game loss in Buffalo on Wednesday night, got a boost from Phil Chenier and Mike Riordan, who had come in below par in the previous games.

Chenier, whose shooting had run hot and cold before, suddenly found the range. He connected for a career-high 38 points on layups and long-range jumpers.

Meanwhile, Riordan, who had scored a total of only 38 points in the first six playoff games, was moving through the Buffalo defense and getting open for baseline drives and jump shots from the corner. He scored 18 points and grabbed 11 rebounds.

Wes Unseld grabbed 12 rebounds and Elvin Hayes added nine for the Bullets, who beat Buffalo off the boards, 53-41. The Braves were unable to trigger their fast break and rarely got more than one shot on a series. They shot 43.6 per cent from the floor.

Hayes and Kevin Porter each finished with 24 points. Unseld had just two points but blocked five Buffalo shots and forced several key turnovers with intimidating defense.

Bob McAdoo, the NBA's leading scorer and Most Valuable Player during the regular season, had 36 points and 11 rebounds while Randy Smith added 17 points and Jim McMillian 12.

Washington successfully dealt with Buffalo's run-and-gun attack Friday night, and Jones felt his team will have to do the same if it's to beat Boston, owner of what most observers believe to be the best fast break in basketball.

"We'll have to control the break — that's the key to beating the Celtics," said Jones, who starred for Boston in the late '50s and early '60s.

Meyer Spoiler For Tiant Tiger's HR Ruins Red Sox' Two-Hitter

DETROIT (AP) — Whoever said a little change once in a while never hurt anyone?

Friday night it hurt Luis Tiant so much he might change his mind about trying to fool rookies with his changeup.

Tiant was pitching a perfect game, retiring the first 14 Tigers, then—with two outs in the fifth inning—Dan Meyer parked his changeup curve into the lower deck in right field for a homer to give Detroit a 1-0 baseball victory over the Boston Red Sox.

It was the climax of a brilliant pitching duel between Tiant, who only gave up one other hit, and Micky Lolich, who fired a four-hitter and raised his record to 3-0.

Rookie Vern Ruhle was scheduled to pitch for the Tigers today against Boston's Bill Lee. "One off-speed curve changed the ball game," Tiger Manager Ralph Houk said. "Danny hit it out and that was it."

In the opposite clubhouse, Tiant was muttering and almost unintelligible.

"It was my fault," said Cuban-born Tiant, a 34-year-old right-hander. "I tried to fool him. Fool him, my eye."

"I tried hard," he said. "I can't do much about it. That's the way the game goes. Sometimes you pitch great and lose and sometimes you pitch lousy and win."

Osteen And May Key White Sox

From Associated Press
Veteran hurler Claude Osteen posted his first triumph since moving back to the American League while pitching the Chicago White Sox to a 5-2 victory over the Kansas City Royals Friday.

Offensively, the 36-year-old pitcher — who had been absent from the AL for 10 years at Los Angeles and Houston — was aided by Carlos May, who slashed two singles and a double while knocking in a pair of runs.

Osteen did get 2-2/3 innings of relief help from Rich Gossage.

Elsewhere in the American League, the California Angels dumped the Oakland A's 2-0 and the Detroit Tigers nipped the Boston Red Sox 1-0. The Milwaukee Brewers-New York Yankees and the Cleveland Indians-Baltimore Orioles games were rained out.

Left-hander Andy Hassler blanked Oakland on five hits and Dave Chalk, the American League's leading hitter, drove in the decisive run as the California Angels blanked the A's 2-0.

Hassler, improving his record to 2-1, was backed by four double plays and was never in serious trouble in outdueling Dave Hamilton, 1-1.

Hassler fanned seven and walked three in stopping the A's who had won six of their previous seven games.

Chalk singled home Bruce Bochte with an unearned run in the fourth. Reggie Jackson's error in right field permitted Bochte, who had singled, to advance into scoring position.

Specific Legislation Coming At August Convention NCAA Armed With Cost-Cutting Ideas

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Armed with a wide-range of cost-cutting proposals supplied by delegates to its special meeting on the economy, the National Collegiate Athletic Association now will frame specific legislation to be considered by the full body at a convention almost certain to be called for August.

Presidents, faculty representatives and athletic directors representing each of the NCAA's three divisions studied the economic problem Thursday and Friday, and came up with answers that ranged from eliminating spring football practice to severely limiting recruiting trips and greatly reducing scholarship awards.

The one area in which there was almost total agreement was the motion by Robben W. Fleming, president of the University of Michigan, to convene a special mid-summer convention that would legislate economies for the member institutions.

"It seems to me that enough has been done here to warrant a special convention," said Fleming. "We have the advantage of momentum. We can avoid putting off action that would prevent implementation for another year."

The NCAA's annual convention is held in January. Only once before, in 1973, when the body was reorganized into three divisions, has a special convention been called.

The NCAA Council must approve the select meeting's call for a special convention, but NCAA President John Fuzak indicated that was almost a mere formality in this case.

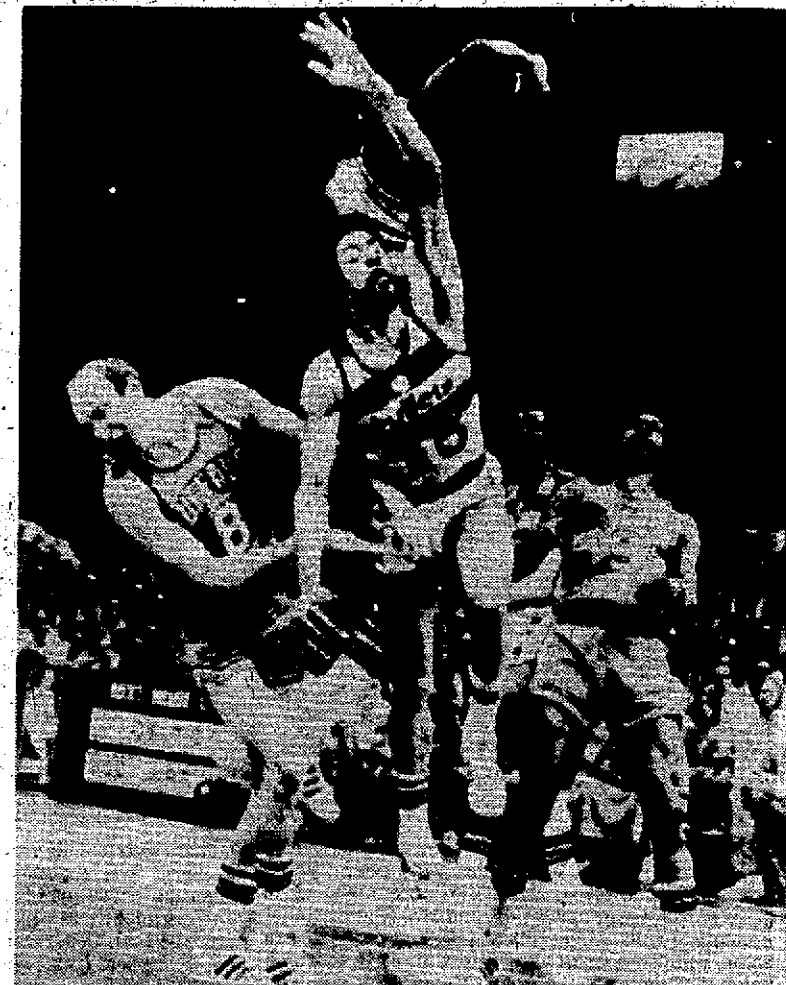

Among the recommendations made by delegates to the select meeting was a proposal that would eliminate full-time recruiters, another limiting schools to three contacts with prospective student athletes, and one that would reduce scholarships in all sports.

Currently, schools are permitted 105 football grants and the Division I representatives recommended reduction of that figure to 90, with a maximum of 90 awards in any two years and no more than 35 in any single year. Basketball grants were reduced to 16, with a maximum of 10 in any two years and seven in any single year.

Badgers Fall In Standings After Dividing Twin Bill

From Associated Press
Wisconsin has slumped to a third-place tie in the Big Ten baseball race after splitting a doubleheader with ninth-place Illinois.

Jon Siron blasted a grand slam homer in the first game Friday to give Illinois the 10-8 victory. Wisconsin's Scott Mackey pitched a three-hit shutout in the second contest for a 3-0 win.

The split dropped Wisconsin to 6-2 in conference behind unbeaten Michigan, 5-0, and Michigan State, 5-1.

Both played nonconference games Friday.

Minnesota dealt Ohio State a double defeat, 8-4 and 4-2, to jump back into contention with a 4-3 conference record.

Indiana's visit to Iowa City proved disastrous for Hoosiers, who dropped from a respectable fourth to a distant tie for sixth place after a double loss to the Iowa Hawkeyes, 10-4, 5-3.

Norrix Wins Niles Relays Again Bears Set Mile Record

By JOHN VANDEN HEED
Staff Sports Writer

NILES — St. Joseph's mile relay team worked off a lot of frustrations for teammates and Bear coach Ron Waldvogel in the final event of the Niles Relays here Friday night.

After several disappointing performances and a controversial disqualification, St. Joe's mile relay squad whipped off a record-smashing 3:26.4 clocking — the fifth best mile relay ever run in southwestern Michigan.

In what easily was the best event of the night for area track fans, Benton Harbor finished second in 3:29.3 and Niles third in 3:30.3. The Tiger and Viking times were also better than the old meet mark of 3:31.1 and now stand as the second and third best mile relay efforts this season in southwestern Michigan.

But the mile relay was about the only moment of glory for area runners in the fourth annual Niles event. Kalamazoo Jay Norrix repeated as the team champion in a runaway by winning six of the 11 events over a field of 12 other schools, including seven from Indiana.

Norrix, easily the best Class A team in this part of the state, finished with 109 points. South Bend Adams followed with 61. Grand Rapids East Kentwood had 43 and St. Joseph, Niles and Mishawaka tied for fourth with 40. Benton Harbor shared 20th with South Bend Riley at 20.

St. Joe would have been in third all alone without the disqualification in the distance medley for throwing the baton — a call disputed by St. Joe anchorman Tim Dine. St. Joe runners, posting the mile relay meet record, were Dick Goodman, Marty Kirk, Henry Fullman and Dave Karsten. They were credited with splits of 52.2, 51.3, 51.6 and 50.8, respectively.

"At least we have something to go away with," noted Waldvogel, who saw Dine's turn to smokes among his runners with the record.

The height of frustration for the Bears came in the distance medley disqualification, where Dine made up more than 100 yards on his man on the last lap to win in the last few steps.

After crossing the finish line, Dine's baton crashed into the cinders, bringing the disqualification call from judges. But Dine claimed he didn't deliberately throw the baton.

"I didn't throw it...I really didn't," declared Dine, the premier long distance runner in southwestern Michigan so far this spring. "If I would have, I would have admitted it."

Dine said he was tired and his hands were cold after his mile run, and the baton slipped from his grasp when the race was over.

St. Joe won one other event with Bob Goodman, Dave Tibbitts, Rusty Schrubba and Fullman clicking off a 3:45.2 in the sprint medley. The Bears also had thirds in the pole vault and shot put relays.

Niles won't be event, with the team on Ron Lewis, Tim Garner, Gary Fridayka and Dave Gutschentlicher, taking the two-mile relay in 8:16.4.

The Vikings were second in the high jump relay, with Carl Vandevyk having the best individual effort of 6 feet, 3 inches.

Niles runners on the third place mile relay squad were the same as in the two-mile relay.

Benton Harbor mile relay runners were Larry Edwards, Maurice Burton, Alex Williams and Jeff Hicks.

The Tigers also had a second in the sprint relay from Steve Cooper, Howard Hunter, Williams and Burton.

South Bend Adams won the event in a record 1:36.5, and Benton Harbor also broke the old mark of 1:37.3 with its 1:36.7 clocking. Burton had a 30.7 leg in the 400.

The other record of the night was ripped off by Norrix in the 800 relay at 1:31.7. The old mark was 1:32.6.

In other track action Friday, South Haven split a pair of duals, beating Fennville 66-57 but losing to Gull Lake 66-57.

Lakers, Indians Both Win; Set Up Arrow Showdown

Unbeaten Red Arrow baseball teams Lake Michigan Catholic and Hartford continued on their collision course Friday afternoon.

The Lakers needed only five frames to polish off New Buffalo 11-1 while Hartford got another solid mound job from Rick Thomas in a 7-2 triumph over Watervliet. In another conference game, Bridgman pulled out a 4-4 squeaker over Eau Claire.

Lake Michigan (6-0) and Hartford (3-0), the only undefeated clubs left in the conference, will collide Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 p.m. at River-view Park for the league lead.

Richard Maxwell, filling in for the sick Bob Mattner, twirled a four-hitter while the Lakers were pounding out 11 hits.

Catholic, 7-0 overall, exploded for seven runs in the second inning when it sent 11 batters to the plate. Two key hits in the frame were a two-run single by Gary Meek and a two-run double by Tom Driscoll. Three walks and two Bison errors also aided the Laker cause.

Meek and Driscoll both finished with two hits for the day.

Losing pitcher Carl Underwood socked a double for New Buffalo and scored the lone Bison run. New Buffalo drops to 0-4 in the league.

Thomas, who fired a no-hitter Tuesday, came back with a four-hit, 12-strikeout job Friday to up his record to 3-0. Jim McVay was the loser.

Brad Flowers creamed two homers to pace the Indian offense. Gary Fernham had a RBI two-bagger and Bob DeFord delivered a RBI squeeze bunt. Frank Gargano shot a two-run double for Watervliet, now 2-2.

The Bees (2-2) pushed across two runs in the last frame to win. Lou Barinka singled and came home on Jeff Runser's triple. Runser scored the winner on a wild pitch.

Dale Burwell blasted a two-run homer in the third and winning pitcher Dan Kamradt a RBI triple in the third for Bridgman, which got six hits. Runser ended with a double and triple.

Losing moundman Don Mann, who fanned eight, swatted two singles in the seven-hit Eau Claire attack. The Beavers dip to 1-4.

Cardinals Earn Share Of First

Bloomington moved into a share of first place in the Southwestern Athletic Conference baseball race with an 11-3 bombing of Martin Friday afternoon.

The Cards and Lawrence, which beat Michigan Lutheran 3-0 in a non-league affair, are now both 2-0 and the lone undefeated teams left in the SAC.

In other encounters Friday, Decatur nipped Marcellus 1-0 and Gobles crushed Lawton 22-1 in five innings.

Tim Hoyt, who fanned eight and walked eight, tossed a three-hitter for Bloomington, which pounded out nine hits. Brothers Gene and Steve Allen, Tim Rigney and Jeff Melvin all collected two hits while Scott Harris batted a two-run double. Gene Allen had two RBIs. Martin falls to 1-2.

Kim Thomas allowed only five hits and struck out nine in out-pitching Al Kent, who also gave up five hits.

The Raiders (2-1) scored the lone run in the second on a two-out single by Al McAdams, a walk to Thomas and a Terry Penning fly ball which the Marcellus center-fielder dropped. McAdams swatted two singles and made a nifty diving catch in right-field for the game's final out. Marcellus is now 1-1.

Lawton committed an unbelievable 16 errors with all nine Gobles runs in the fifth frame of the unearned variety. Gobles ended with eight hits with Jim Hanson getting two singles and winning hurler Dan Hopwood, who pitched a two-hitter and fanned 10, slamming a two-bagger.

Damon DeVries smacked a RBI double for Lawton (0-3), which had Delloyd Waite taking the mound loss.

Dave Congdon went the distance, fanning eight, issuing three walks and three hits, for Lawrence. Fred Krieger permitted five safeties in absorbing the setback. He whiffed nine and walked two.

Lawrence scored one in the fourth on an error and two in the fifth on singles by Congdon and Matt Mills, a throwing mistake and an infield out.

Congdon rifled a double and single for the Tigers and Krieger two singles for Lutheran, playing its first game on its new diamond. Bruce Morris doubled for the Titans, now 1-1.

Champ Bobo Brazil Tops Pro Mat Card At St. Joe

Heavyweight wrestling champion Bobo Brazil of Benton Harbor will defend his title at 8 p.m. Thursday, May 1 in the St. Joseph high school gym.

Brazil will meet Big Ox Baker in an event sponsored by the St. Joseph High School Baseball Boosters Club.

Also appearing on the sanctioned card will be Monkey Man Hank James against the Korean champion, Mitsuo Arakawa. A tag team match will pit the Fabulous Poffos against Benton Harbor's Tiny Tim Hampton and Gary Fulton. And a girls' match will feature Lucille DuPre and Cathy McCoy.

Northern Errors, Miskill Key SJ

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

St. Joseph isn't fussy, it'll take all it can get.

And the Bears got plenty of free gifts from Portage Northern Friday afternoon in a weird ball game at chilly, breezy Dickinson Field.

Northern helped St. Joe get back into the thick of the Big Six race with nine errors, six by one player, as the Bears posted a much-needed 7-3 victory.

Thirteen blunders in the game made all 10 tallies unearned. Northern third-sacker Tom Barrow should of used a basket instead of his mitt as he committed six errors, including two on a single play.

Almost overshadowed by the comedy of errors was some brilliant pitching by the Bears' Jeff Miskill and Mickey Ott, who combined for a splendid one-hitter despite not striking out a single Huskie batter.

Miskill, a fast-balling righty, didn't give up an earned run and the only hit off him was also tainted. Dick Smith started the fourth with a slow roller down the third-base line. Miskill fielded the ball cleanly but slipped while attempting to throw the ball to first. Northern, 6-3 overall, went on to score three runs in the fourth when the Bears made three of their four errors while Miskill issued a walk and hit a batter.

Ott came in with two on and no outs in the last inning and quickly got the side out in order to preserve Miskill's third straight win without a loss.

"Miskill was really strong today," commented Bear pitching coach Mike Wyngard. "He had excellent control...he was throwing strikes and making them hit the ball on the ground. I think he only threw three curves all day."

"We're back in the race," added St. Joe coach Dave Durr. "Outside of that one inning we played well in the field. Northern is a good team, even though they gave us some runs today. We'll take the win."

St. Joe and Northern are both

2-1 in the Big Six and trail leader Portage Central (2-0). Niles is also 2-1.

The Bears, 4-3 overall, only got six hits off losing hurler Tom Danielson, who came into the game with a 2-0 mark and 0.85 ERA. But then St. Joe really didn't need many hits with the Huskies' shipshod fielding. St. Joe got one run in the opening frame on a sacrifice fly by Mike Priebe, one in the second on an error and two in the third on an error and a sacrifice fly by Miskill.

Leading only 4-3, the Bears broke away with three runs in the fifth. Mike Collier slapped a RBI single and an error and wild pitch brought in two more. Gerald Wolf with a double and single was the lone Bear to collect more than one safety. Miskill and Mike and Greg Priebe all rifled singles.

In an oddity, there were only two strikeouts in the entire game, both by Danielson. Miskill and Danielson both issued three walks.

The Bears were scheduled to travel to South Haven for a non-league twin bill today.

In another Big Six game, Bob Carman also fired an one-hitter as Loy Norrix earned its first league win with a 10-0 pasting of Dowagiac. The lone hit off Carman, who struck out nine, was a fourth-inning single by Jim Casey.

Norrix (1-3), which scored five in the first, struck for eight hits with Bob Waalkes taking the setback on the mound. The game was halted in the sixth due to the ten-run rule. The Chiefs are 0-3 in Big Six action and 3-9 overall.

Coloma Girls Win

COLOMA — Debbie Luckner and Maureen Herman both collected three singles as Coloma nipped St. Joseph 13-12 in girls softball here Friday. Tina Page belted a single and double and Julie Bruff a homer for the Comets, now 3-2. Kathy Rock homered for St. Joe.

Knapp Pitches Central Victory

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (AP) — Central Michigan and Miami of Ohio split a non-conference college baseball doubleheader Friday in a pair of pitching duels.

CMU's Chris Knapp, 3-1, gave up seven hits in the first game and struck out seven batters in getting credit for a 4-2 victory.

Bears Post Win

PORTAGE — Pat Weber drove in the winning run in the last inning with a sacrifice fly to give the St. Joseph junior varsity a 6-5 win over Portage Northern here Friday. Mike Kline had a two-run double for the Bears, now 4-1. Steve Ross in relief of Ron Hollis was the winning hurler.

Sanguillen Gets 'His' Pitch

Cubs Edge Cardinals On Swisher's Single

From Associated Press
Manny Sanguillen has had it. No more swinging at bad pitches. No kidding. "We have too many good hitters in our lineup for me to keep chasing bad pitches," says Pittsburgh's carefree swinger. "I'm not going to swing at bad pitches anymore — I'm going to wait for my pitch."

The Pirate catcher was as good as his word Friday night. He waited for his pitch and when he didn't see anything he liked, he walked. When he did see something he liked he hit a home run in the seventh inning with a man on base and provided Bruce Kison with the margin to beat Steve Carlton, 3-2.

"When I first started playing baseball I swung at every pitch — over my head, in the dirt," said Sanguillen. "But I'm a smarter ballplayer now and I'm going to wait."

Sanguillen has had a history of first-ball and bad-ball hitting. Last year, the catcher had only 12 unintentional walks "all season."

In the other National League games, the Houston Astros beat the Cincinnati Reds 6-4; the San Diego Padres stopped the Atlanta Braves 5-3; the New York Mets trimmed the Montreal Expos 5-3; the Chicago Cubs whipped the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 and the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped the San Francisco Giants 6-5.

Sanguillen's homer backed the combined eight-hit pitching of Kison and Dave Giusti. The score was tied 1-1 going into the Pirate seventh when Richie Zisk reached base on an error by Philadelphia second baseman

Kison, who boosted his record to 1-1, struck out six and allowed two walks but needed relief help from Giusti in the eighth. After an error and singles by Bob Boone and Jay Johnstone accounted for one run and put another runner at third, Giusti came in and got Alan Bannister to fly out, ending the inning.

Pat Darcy's balk sent Cesar Cedeno in to score and triggered a three-run sixth inning that helped Houston beat Cincinnati. The game was scoreless when Cedeno doubled to open the inning against Darcy. After moving to third, Darcy balked in one run before Doug Rader singled in a second run. The Astros made it 3-0 on Larry Dierker's fielder's choice grounder.

Cincinnati rallied for two runs in the seventh, but a bigger uprising was nipped by a disputed inning-ending double play.

Two walks loaded the bases for Dan Driessen, who grounded the baseball to Rob Andrews at second base. Andrews flipped the ball to shortstop Roger Metzger who was cut down wide of the bag by the sliding Merv Rettenmund.

Umpire Ed Vargo immediately signaled interference and ruled an automatic completion of the play, resulting in an inning-ending double play. Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson announced he was playing the game under protest but Preston Gomez, the Houston manager, didn't think that the protest would stick.

"It was so obvious," said Gomez. "Rettenmund just went after Metzger. He went out of his way to take Roger out of the play. He couldn't even get rid of the ball. It was a good call by Vargo. He didn't hesitate calling it."

Sonny Siebert pitched seven strong innings and doubled home a run as San Diego defeated Atlanta to protect its National League Western Division lead. The Padres put together five straight hits off loser Buzz Capra, 2-2, in the fourth inning for three runs to break a 1-1 tie. Fred Kendall doubled home two of the runs and Siebert doubled home the other. Bobby Tolan singled home a first-inning run for the winners.

New York made the most of only three hits, including run-scoring singles by Rusty Staub and Ed Kranepool, and beat Montreal behind the combined nine-hit pitching of Jon Matlack and Rick Baldwin. The victory was the fifth in a row for the Mets, who capitalized for two scoring innings on the wildness of Steve Rogers, 0-3. Rogers was making his first appearance since April 13.

Steve Swisher's run-scoring single off St. Louis relief ace Al Hrabosky in the eighth inning lifted Chicago over the Cardinals. Swisher's game-winning hit off Hrabosky, 0-3, scored rookie Peter Lacock, who had led off the eighth with a single and was sacrificed to second by Manny Trillo.

Los Angeles pitcher Andy Messersmith twice staked San Francisco to leads with his wildness before hitting a double in the sixth inning and scoring the go-ahead run as the Dodgers beat the Giants.

Messersmith, 3-0, walked four batters over the first four innings and the Dodgers trailed 4-3 before Rick Auerbach singled to start a one-out rally in the sixth. Messersmith drove in a run with his second double of the night and scored on Dave Lopes' single.

Messersmith later blasted his third double in the eighth inning, a modern record for a pitcher, and scored the Dodgers' sixth and eventual winning run with the help of a Giant error. Jim Brewer pitched the ninth inning for the Dodgers after Messersmith tired and gave up a run on Chris Speier's double, his fourth RBI of the night.

Nuggets, Spirits Chalk Up

Playoff Victories In ABA

One coach named Brown was smiling in victory, the other was gracious in defeat in the American Basketball Association semifinal series.

In Denver, a smiling Larry Brown basked in the glow of his team's 126-109 victory over Indiana here Friday night and said, "Now it's a three-game series."

In St. Louis, Kentucky Coach Hubie Brown praised the performance of the Spirits of St. Louis, who fashioned a 103-97 victory over his Colonels.

Larry Brown, the ABA coach of the year in his first season at Denver, was breathing easier after the victory tied the best-of-seven Western Division playoff series at 2-2 and ended the Nuggets' losing string at two games.

"We must be ready to play

Sunday (in game No. 5 at Denver)," the youthful Brown said, "because the Pacers could pop right back and beat us the way we beat them tonight."

Hubie Brown directed his comments mainly at Spirits' floor leader Freddie Lewis, who despite his meager size of 6 feet, dragged down 12 rebounds to accompany his 32 points.

"No, I wouldn't say that Freddie's play was the key," insisted Brown, whose team maintains a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven ABA semifinal series.

"But he not only only got them 30-some points, he also got them a ton of rebounds and played a heck of an all-around game," Brown said.

Indiana Coach Bobby

Leonard kept the dressing room door firmly closed after his young squad blew a three-point halftime lead and Denver turned the game into a slaughter with a 33-20 third-period edge.

Second-year player Mike Green, hobbled by a knee injury, and unsung veteran Byron Beck were the big guns in the Nugget victory.

Green, who was a doubtful starter, came up with 10 of 13 from the floor and 20 points in the first half and wound up with 32 points for the night. Beck hit only six points in the first half but finished with 23, including 11 in the decisive third period.

The Pacers were led by Darnell Hillman, who sparked a first-half rally that brought Indiana back from a 13-point deficit. He came up with a career-high 34 points, 22 of them in that first half, and finished with 15 of 18 from the floor.

Indiana superstar George McGinnis added 25 points, a team-high 10 rebounds and eight assists.

In looking ahead, Hubie Brown said he could foresee another fierce struggle for the fourth game at St. Louis Sunday night.

"I think that a lot of guys were in on what happened to us tonight," acknowledged the Colonels' coach, who also cited Marvin Barnes' 27 points and Maurice Lucas' game-leading 20 rebounds.

"I'd say those two had quite a night," he added, "but we were disappointed in our failure to use our offense when we were within eight feet. We counted the shots one time, and we must have missed 10."

Pleasing to Brown was a Colonels comeback after the Spirits, bolstered by Barnes' 14 points in the opening quarter, later shot ahead by 41-28.

But disheartening to the coach were his team's failures after Dan Issel, who totaled 31 points, helped provide Kentucky with a 64-61 lead.

Houston Aeros Stop

Lacroix, San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Houston Aeros think they've finally found a way to shut off high-scoring San Diego center Andre Lacroix.

The trick: smother the wingers on either side of him.

It worked to perfection Friday night. Lacroix, the World Hockey Association's leading scorer, was shut out along with the rest of the San Diego Mariners and the Aeros went on to win 4-0.

The victory gave Houston a 10 edge in their best-of-seven semifinal playoff series against the Mariners. The teams play here again Sunday night, then travel to Houston for three games.

The Quebec Nordiques and the Minnesota Fighting Saints meet tonight in the third game of their semifinal series, tied 1-1.

The Aeros, defending WHA champions, had to figure out something to stop Lacroix and friends. They'd beaten Houston in five of six regular season games.

"We had been double-teaming Lacroix all season," said Aeros Coach Bill Dineen. "But tonight we played him one-on-one and kept everyone on his line covered."

Both teams had 35 shots on goal, but Aeros goalie Ron Grahame had an easier time of it, thanks to Houston's stifling defense.

Mariners Player-Coach Harry Howell said he's not worried yet, however.

"Houston played a helluva game," he said. "But we've come back from bad games before."

Andre Hlinse scored the first — and winning — goal for the Aeros. Houston then scored twice in just over a minute in the second period on shots by Murray Hall and Terry Ruskowski. Hall suffered a gash in his forehead in the first period that took 20 stitches, but he continued to play.

Gordon Labossiere added the final goal for Houston.

Northern Tops

St. Joe Netters

Portage Northern defeated St. Joseph 5-2 in a tennis match Friday afternoon on the Bears' courts.

In No. 4 singles, the Bears' Dan Pasek beat Mark Vescovi 6-3, 6-3. The Bears' outstanding No. 1 doubles pair of Tom Lanni and Jeff Baillif upped their record to 8-6 with a 7-6, 7-5 victory over Ward Whitmore and Charlie Holcomb. The Bears are now 4-4.

Lakeshore Blanked

EDWARDSBURG — Lakeshore could muster only two hits off winning hurler Scherfke and dropped a 5-0 decision here Friday in a girls softball contest. Jodi Rabberri and Patty Hoge with singles got the lone Lancers hits. Pat Reed worked a triple and single for the Eddies. Lakeshore is now 3-2.

Schultz Gets Win

Frederick Ron Schultz of Brown Harbor Brecony won his 10th intercollegiate tennis match while playing No. 3 singles for Michigan Tech.

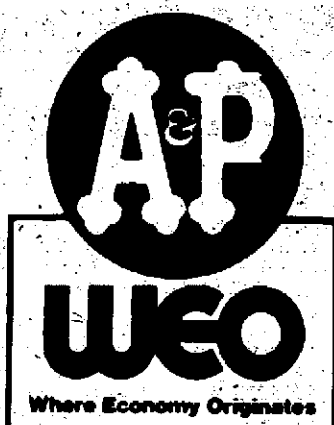

60 YEARS AGO, YOU DIDN'T NEED A COLLEGE EDUCATION

In fact, you didn't need much of anything except a willingness to work 16 hours a day. For 8¢ an hour. Under brutal conditions. But times have changed drastically. Life for the working man is more challenging. Safer. More stimulating. And far more rewarding. Why? Many things have helped. Especially an endless flow of technological improvements and discoveries. Many of which came from college campuses, and from college-trained men and women. We must sustain this flow of ideas. Only in this way, can we increase the productivity that will maintain and increase our standard of living. America's colleges need your help. They are in deep financial trouble.

Coloma Township Funds Increased

COLOMA — Robert Palmer, Coloma township treasurer, reported yesterday afternoon that the township's annual federal revenue sharing funds have been increased for 1975-76 by nearly one third.

According to Palmer, the township will receive $23,849 between July 1, 1975 and June 30, 1976, up $6,670 over the amount allocated to the township of $17,172 for each of the past four years.

Palmer said that the increased federal revenue sharing monies came as a result of supplying the federal government with information regarding the township's three-mill property tax for paying for the Paw Paw Lake sewage treatment plant and river interceptor line.

Palmer said the basis for determining federal revenue sharing funds includes the tax effort of the governmental unit, the population and the average income of the residents, in addition to other factors.

"They (the federal people) didn't know we (the township) had been collecting tax for the treatment plant and river interceptor, or we could have qualified for additional funds sooner," Palmer said.

According to the township treasurer, the township board will meet next month to determine how the additional revenue sharing funds will be dispersed, but indicated a large portion would probably go toward public safety.

Van Buren Library Joins Area Group

Van Buren county library system is the latest addition to the Library System of Southwestern Michigan which has its headquarters in the Benton Harbor public library. Carolyn Sutter, the system's director and acting director of the Benton Harbor library, said the state library board this month gave its approval to the Van Buren county membership.

The system was formerly the Berrien County Library league but was renamed with additions of the Cass county library system and its five branches and the Van Buren system and its six branches.

Members get reference, book and audio-visual services and reciprocal borrowing privileges.

They pay an annual fee of 15 cents per person based on the population served in their home areas, Mrs. Sutter said. Besides Van Buren and Cass counties, other members of the system are Benton Harbor, the Sparks Memorial library of Berrien Springs, and libraries in Bridgman, Coloma, Eau Claire, Galien, Lincoln township, New Buffalo, Sodus and Watervliet.

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG AP Newsfeatures

Q. — When I went up in the attic the other day for the first time in a few weeks, I discovered several places where the vapor barrier of the wall insulation was torn. I have no idea how this happened, but I would like to know how to patch it.

A. — The usual procedure is to strip a piece of vapor barrier from a scrap section of the insulation laid over when the installation was made. If you have no such left-over pieces, use polyethylene to cover the broken area. Tape the patch to keep it securely in place. While you are at it, check to see whether there are any other breaks. Even a small opening in a vapor barrier is enough to permit the entrance of moisture.

(A brand new Andy Lang booklet is "Saving Money in Insulating." It can be obtained by sending 30 cents, and a long, STAMPED, self-addressed envelope to: Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743.)

house will be a compromise between needs, emotions, and what you can afford. So take all the most important factors into consideration.

— Thoroughly inspect the homes you are shown. Your realtor will see that you have plenty of time for a thorough, unhurried inspection. He will inspect homes with you and call your attention to improvements and advantages you might overlook, and point out any disadvantages you might not notice.

— Ask questions. Don't hesitate to ask about any phase of the house and property that comes to mind — the neighborhood, structural soundness, closet and storage space, plumbing, etc. If you are unsure about the soundness of a house, have an appraiser inspect it.

Remember, although a home is a big investment, when you buy a home, you're saving money you would otherwise pay in rent. Your equity increases each time you make a mortgage payment, and taxes and interest are income tax deductions.

But most importantly, you're investing in your family's happiness, and there's no better investment anywhere.

— Know what you can afford. As a rule of thumb, the home should cost no more than 2.5 times your annual income, and monthly mortgage payments should not exceed 25% of your monthly income. These guides are flexible, however, and can be affected by your other obligations.

— Check your assets — savings, investments, etc. — and remember, there are a variety of potential lenders: Savings and loans, mortgage banking companies, and commercial banks. Explore all sources.

— Be realistic: Your dream

many bedrooms and bathrooms does your family require? Location? Should the neighborhood be quiet and conventional or busy and informal? Any house is "just right" if it's right for you.

— Contact a realtor. Since you have determined to some extent the type of house you need, (and he's ready to help you here too), he can match your dream house to the realistic needs of your family. The more specific you are, the more efficient he can be. You're saving yourself time by narrowing the choice in houses.

Finding the right home at the right price is never a simple process, but it might be a lot less complicated than you think. The National Association of Realtors and Southwestern Michigan Board of Realtors suggests the following house-hunting and buying tips that can save you time, effort and headaches:

— Do a little homework. The needs and interests of your family will determine the most important decisions to be made. Do you want a new or existing home? Should it be traditional or modern? How

Taxpayers Benefit

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Rep. Manuel Lujan Jr. of New Mexico did a chore recently like so many other amateurs. He and his staff painted his Washington offices.

The Republican was told by an architect that it would cost $9,100 to paint the three-room office complex.

Lujan bought paint for $48 and joined with his staff in spending eight hours on a Saturday painting the offices.

The color used: Blue.

JAMES E. NEUBAUER Berrien Extension Agent

The red-black warts on silver maple leaves are caused by maple bladder gall mites. If you want to prevent this harmless but unsightly condition, spray with malathion 57% EC (liquid) at 1½ teaspoons per gallon of water. Spray twice, 7 days apart as the buds break. This is only on silver maple. It is not worthwhile to spray large trees.

Gardening: It's time to plant beets, cabbage, carrots, collards, onions, peas, radishes, divide and plant rhubarb, spinach, kohlrabi and asparagus crowns.

Information about home grounds maintenance and gardening can be obtained by calling the Berrien County Cooperative Extension service at 983-7111, Ext. 241, or by stopping by the office in the courthouse, St. Joseph.

Easter Seal 'Bikathon'

Chairmen Are Announced

Volunteer chairmen for the 1975 Berrien county Easter Seal Bikathon May 17 were announced today by Jeffrey S. Butzbach, president of the Easter Seal society.

Chairmen include David Mack, safety; Mrs. Warren Tyler, coordinator; Danny Ertman, route chairman, and Gordon Berndt, Mrs. Edwin Mendel and Larry Cushman, registration.

Butzbach said two new, 10-speed bicycles will be awarded to the riders who raise the most to support the Easter Seal program for handicapped children and adults.

Butzbach explained "bikers may ask friends and neighbors to contribute 10 cents or more for each mile they ride. Then they return to their sponsors to collect contributions based on the number of miles they have ridden."

Bikers will ride on six, 14 and 28-mile courses staked out between two registration areas, Upton Junior high school on Lincoln avenue and Maiden Lane, St. Joseph and Bridgman high school, Gast road, Bridgman.

Registration and sponsor sheets for the bikathon are being made available through schools and county 4-H clubs. Butzbach said anyone seeking information about the bikathon can call the Easter Seal society, 983-3981.

NIXON, FORMAL: FORD, CHATTY

Presidential Reception Styles Differ

By GRATTAN GRAY
Monroe Evening News
MONROE, Mich. (AP) — Members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors had a chance at their recent meeting in Washington to visit the White House.

President Ford's reception — which followed a speech to the group earlier in the day — renews a tradition which had been broken during the last two years of the Nixon administration.

Over many years it had been traditional not only for the President to address the editors' group, but to give a reception for editors and their wives at the White House sometime during the ASNE meeting. And in more relaxed days, the reception frequently was augmented by a tour of the White House for editors' wives conducted personally by the First Lady.

President Nixon did not meet with the editors' group in either 1973 or 1974, but I did have an opportunity to attend a combination "White House briefing" and reception in October 1972.

At this session — attended by a number of Midwest state and regional press association officers — members of the Nixon cabinet spoke on programs and problems of their departments during morning and afternoon sessions in the Executive Office Building adjacent to the White House.

Following these sessions, President and Mrs. Nixon entertained at the White House, the President spoke briefly and informally in the East Room, then a formal reception line was available.

After proceeding through the reception line, newsmen were ushered through to the West Room where drinks and a large table of hors d'oeuvres were available.

The food was of unusual variety and was excellently prepared and presented. White House aides, as well as several cabinet members, were present to visit with the assembled newsmen and their wives.

This year's reception with President Ford was markedly different.

The President, who had spoken briefly at a luncheon at the Shoreham Hotel, did not address newsmen at the White House. There was no formal reception line.

Instead, the President attempted to circulate among the newsmen — a difficult thing to do because he was constantly surrounded by those wishing to greet him and ask him questions.

He did, however, manage to move from one end of the first floor of the White House to the other, chatting quite informally with perhaps a hundred or more of the several hundred newsmen and wives in attendance.

A small Marine group of eight to 10 played in the foyer during the reception, mostly musical comedy or light classical selections. There was a table of hors d'oeuvres but it was modest and selection was limited to three or four items. These were not, incidentally, particularly noteworthy. If adequate, there were hardly something one would try to get the recipe for.

Mrs. Ford was not present, and it was indicated by several of the White House aides that she does not normally attend receptions.

The President, apparently, does not feel the same way. He was relaxed and appeared to enjoy the informal interchange with editors. The reception, which was supposed to last just an hour, ran much longer, mostly as the result of the President's chattiness.

If the Ford and Nixon administrations reflect the difference observable at the two receptions, and it seems likely they do, the contrast is sharp.

The Nixon approach was formal, carefully orchestrated, meticulously regulated and replete with the trappings of command.

The Ford approach is casual, open, virtually devoid of trappings. It is certainly less well regulated. The Nixon reception was an event, the Ford reception was just a visit.

Both were memorable and both also tell quite a lot about the characters of the two men, both as individuals and as presidents.

Robbery Suspects Quizzed

LONDON (AP) — Detectives questioned six suspects today in the holdup of a Bank of America branch in London's Mayfair district in which police estimated up to $7 million may have been stolen.

A police spokesman said some valuables taken from safe deposit boxes in the Thursday night holdup may have been recovered but gave no details. One woman had reported she lost jewelry worth $400,000.

The thieves, wearing hoods, took the equivalent of $610,000 in cash, plus the contents of 80 of the bank's 400 safe deposit boxes. Many of the boxes were rented by wealthy American businessmen and celebrities living in Mayfair.

Police said one of the gangsters might have hidden inside the bank at closing time and let the others in.

One Guest Tells His Impressions

How does President Ford's style of social hospitality compare with former President Nixon's? The editor of the Monroe Evening News recently was a guest at the White House and tells his impressions.

formed and newspaper men and their wives filed by to shake hands and exchange a word or two.

At the time of the meeting and reception, Watergate was still thought by most to be unconnected to the White House, possibly the work of dissident, expatriated Cubans.

Thus the meeting and reception preceded the days when the President avoided the public and the press as the story of Watergate began to unfold.

The visit to the White House this year was interesting particularly because it recalled so vividly the 1972 visit. The contrasts were notable and numerous.

In 1972, the "Palace Guard" was in full bloom. The White House was staffed by brightly uniformed military aides. The full Marine band of 30 to 40 pieces played martial music in the grand entrance rooms.

President Nixon's remarks to the assembled group of news-

CIA Is Blamed For Ship Blast

NEW YORK (AP) — CIA frogmen caused the deaths of 75 persons when they blew up a French ship as it was unloading munitions in Havana harbor March 4, 1960, the New York Daily News quotes a former CIA agent as saying.

Without naming its informant, the newspaper said in Friday edition that the one-time Central Intelligence Agency operative told them that when the vessel Le Couvre was blown up, more than 200 other persons were injured.

'Caution' Slows Stocks

By LEE MITGANG
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Profit-taking, uncertainty over the future course of interest rates and a mixed bag of earnings reports held stock prices to a small gain this past week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials ended with a 3.37-point advance at 811.80. Issues rising in price barely led losers, 888 to 846, of the 2,003 stocks traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Nonetheless, 493 issues scored new yearly highs this week, against only 41 new lows.

The word on Wall Street this week was caution, as volume shrank to 109.43 million shares, compared with 134.65 million a week ago.

Standard & Poor's 88-stock index was up 0.32 to 86.62, and the NYSE's broad-based composite index gained 0.19 to 45.95.

"We are in another digestive phase as indicated by waning volume and lack of rotation of market leadership," said analyst Larry Wachtel on Friday.

Signs that big business viewed the nation's economic future with optimism helped the Dow gain more than 7 points on Monday. But the market dallied on Tuesday with a drop of 1.72 points as long-overdue profit-taking appeared to take hold.

On Wednesday came the week's most upsetting statistic. The government reported it had a record $7.85-billion deficit in March, fanning fears on Wall Street that an expected mountain of Treasury borrowing in the coming months might put upward pressure on interest rates.

"As the government finances that debt, it will compete with private bond issues for investors' dollars, pushing up interest rates and maybe attracting some money away from stocks," said analyst Ralph Acampora.

That concern also put a damper on Thursday's performance when the Dow added 1.17 but dipped below the 20-million share level.

Stocks showed some life on Friday, however, helped by news the nation had a record $1.4-billion trade surplus in March, the second consecutive monthly total. The Dow gained 8.14, the best of the week.

Polaroid topped the NYSE active list, off 1/2 to 30 1/2. The company predicted its SX-70 camera and film would not be profitable this year.

Commonwealth Oil, second active, added 2 1/2 to 11 1/2. A week ago, Tesoro Petroleum said it was making a tender offer of $11.50 a share for 5.5 million Commonwealth shares.

Also among the actives, Avon Products rose 1/4 to 42 1/2. Marathon Oil 1/4 to 35 1/2. General Motors 1/4 to 44 1/2, while Xerox dropped 2 1/2 to 71 1/4.

On the American Exchange, the market-value index was up 0.77 to 84.18. The most-active issue, Syntex, dipped 1/4 to 42 1/2.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market rose 0.56 to 78.64.

13c Mail Coming October 1

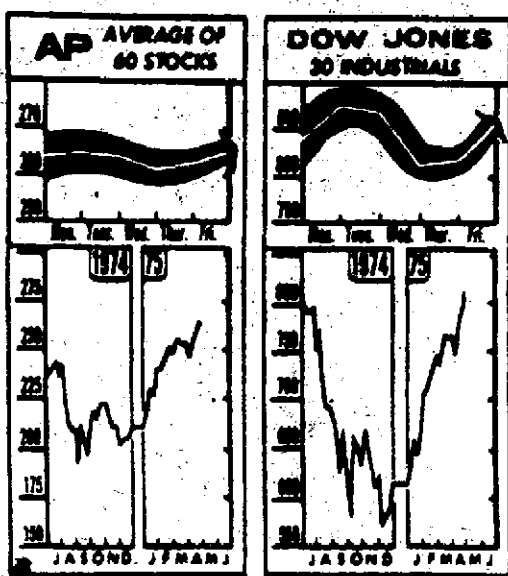

DETROIT (AP) — A high ranking U.S. Postal Service official said this week that the cost of first class mail will be upped three cents to 13 cents about Oct. 1.

J.T. Ellington, Jr., senior assistant postmaster general, said the boost would be approved by the Federal Rates Commission even though the volume of mail fell off after rates went up the last time, in March, 1974.

Ellington told the Greater Detroit Area Postal Conference that in an effort to cut costs, the Postal Service may bar door-to-door mail delivery, requiring instead that residents go to central boxes to pick up their mail.

EX-LAWMAKER DIES

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Former Democratic Congressman Chester C. Gorski, 66, president of the Buffalo Common Council for 14 years, died Friday. He was elected to the U.S. House in 1940 but was defeated in a reelection bid in 1948.

SLIGHT RISE:

The stock market rose slightly this week, with the Dow Jones average closing at 811.80 Friday, up 3.37 from the week prior. The Associated Press average rose by 2.0 over the same period to close at 265.6. Analysts attributed the surge in prices Friday after a slow week to news of a record U.S. trade surplus in March, and a new chance for a negotiated peace in Vietnam. (AP Wirephoto)

INCOME TAX

What State Taketh, Feds Giveth Back

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state starts taking a bigger chunk of your paycheck May 1 when Michigan's personal income tax rate jumps from 3.9 to 4.6 per cent.

"But the medicine might not be too bitter to swallow because the federal income tax rebate, President Ford recently signed into law still will give taxpayers extra cash despite the state increase.

In March the legislature approved the state's higher income tax rate at Gov. William Milliken's request to replace the $210 million - 220 million Michigan expects to lose annually due to voter repeal of the food and drug sales tax last November.

"Everybody's set to go," budget director Gerald Miller said Friday. He said employers have the new withholding schedules. He said the first wage-earners to feel the increase "in black and green" will be workers paid on Thursdays when they get their May 8th paychecks.

The increase means that for a family of four earning $15,000 the tax will go from $531 to $414 recouped with their federal rebate of $170 they will have a net gain of $107.

For the same family earning $10,000, the increase would raise their tax from $136 to $184, but their federal rebate of $100 will give them a net gain of $72.

For a family of two earning $15,000 the income tax will rise from $468 to $552, but their $200 federal rebate will give them a net gain of $116. For that same family earning $10,000 the tax would jump from $273 to $332, but the federal rebate of $115 would give them a net gain of $56.

BERRIEN COURT

Three Damage Suits Seeking $740,000

A suit seeking $300,000 for injuries a Niles man allegedly sustained in an auto accident last month has been filed in Berrien circuit court.

The plaintiffs, Edward and Betty Flick, of Niles, claim Mr. Flick was injured on March 19 at the intersection of Main and Fifth streets in Niles when a car he was driving was struck by another auto which allegedly ran a red light.

Named defendants were Kevin Shelton, alleged driver of the other car, and his father, James Shelton, owner of the car, both of Niles.

In another suit, William and Othrine Horton, of 2068 East Empire avenue, Benton township, seek a total of $165,000 for injuries Mrs. Horton allegedly sustained Jan. 27, 1973, when she stepped into a hole between the sidewalk and driveway at the Ravines mobile home park, where the Hortons live.

Named defendants were Michigan Management Co., identified as the owner of the Ravines, and Patrick Mason, doing business as Southwestern Michigan Construction Co., identified as the contractor who built the sidewalk and driveway.

Another auto accident suit, filed by J.C. and Effie Ray, of 1433 Highland avenue, Benton township, seeks a total of $275,000 from an insurance company and a Berrien county man as the result of a Sept. 21, 1974, collision.

The plaintiffs claim Ray was injured when a car he was driving was struck by another auto driven by Millard D. Bradley on US-12 near Red Arrow highway in New Buffalo township.

Named defendants were Bradley and State Farm Mutual Insurance Co., which the Rays claim issued an insurance policy to them, but failed to pay for Ray's alleged injuries.

Drug Raid

VALPARAISO, Ind. (AP) — Police arrested 11 persons on drug charges Friday night and early today in raids on 10 homes in Porter County. Sheriff Jack Bradshaw said about 30 officers participated in the raids which climaxed 1 1/2 months of investigations. Most of the arrests were based on warrants.

Another Chrysler Rebate Rumored

DETROIT (AP) — Reports circulated today that Chrysler Corp., which pioneered the auto rebate plan last January to bolster sagging sales, would announce a similar cash rebate plan early next week.

Informed sources said the new rebate formula would offer a maximum rebate of $200 to new car buyers, compared with $300 to $400 in the earlier Chrysler program.

Chrysler board chairman Lynn A. Townsend parried newsmen's questions when he was asked about reports that Chrysler has scheduled a series of meetings with dealers across the country to explain the new program.

At first, Townsend said he did not know of any plans for a new rebate program. A bit later he said, "I don't want to talk about it. (The purpose of the meetings)"

The kickoff meeting for Chrysler dealers in the greater Detroit area was scheduled Monday in suburban Southfield.

Other regional meetings were to be held Tuesday and Wednesday.

Several Detroit area dealers told the Detroit Free Press they had been informed about the meeting place and time but had been given no indication that another round of rebates was coming up.

The dealers said they were told only that there would be an announcement to help their lagging sales.

Chrysler gave no advance indication which of its cars would be covered, the amount of the rebate or the length of the program.

Chrysler got the jump on the rest of the auto industry Jan. 12 when it announced a series of cash rebates for new car buyers. The latest rebate plan would come with Chrysler holding about a 90-day inventory of unsold cars, compared to 76 days at the end of the previous rebate campaign March 31.

At the start of this week, Chrysler had an estimated 110-day supply of Valiants and a 117-day supply of Darts. It was anticipated these two cars would be featured in any Chrysler rebate program.

Observers said the Chrysler backlog, while large, is nowhere near the 139-day supply the firm had on hand in January.

Industry-wide, the auto firms had a 66-day inventory last month. But that figure has climbed to a current 83-day supply.

Bicyclist Treated, Released

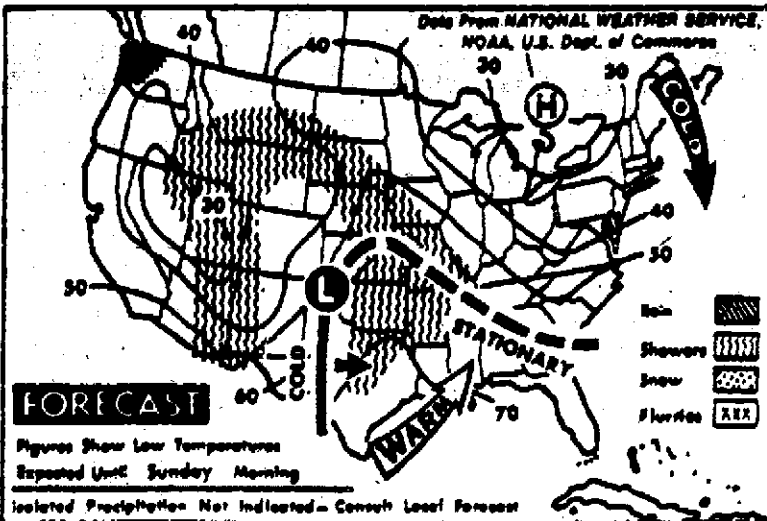

Byron E. Askin Jr., 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron E. Askin Sr., 2910 Willa drive, St. Joseph, was treated and released from Memorial hospital Friday after a bicycle he was riding and a car collided on Morton avenue, near Flanders place. St. Joseph police said the bicycle was in front of an pedaled auto, driven by Kathy Lynn Monague, 32, of 2068 Morton. No summonses were issued, police reported. The accident occurred about 5:05 p.m.

Platte Gets Nod As Kent Controller

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Richard J. Platte, 31, was recommended Friday to become Kent County controller. The unanimous recommendation came from two county commission committees and will be voted upon by the full commission May 7. If confirmed then as expected, Platte would succeed Frank Evans on June 1. Platte is now deputy controller. The controller is the top county administrative officer. The job is similar to a city manager's.

WITH KIN IN ARMY

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — About 2,000 Asian students at American colleges have relatives in South Vietnam, and Cambodia they may want to help get to the United States before a complete Communist takeover, a foreign student official says.

TODAY'S WEATHER MAP: There will be showers Saturday from Texas through the southern midwestern states to the northern Plains and southward through the Rocky Mountains to Arizona and New Mexico. It will rain in the Pacific Northwest. It will be warm along the Gulf Coast and cold in the Northeast. (AP Wirephoto Map)

BH Has No Firm Proposal For Apartment Complex

By JAMES SHANAHAN
BH City Editor

The City of Benton Harbor has not received a firm proposal from a developer to build apartments on 12 acres between Eighth and Ninth streets, City Manager Charles A. Morrison said Friday.

He said the city has various drawings and plans from BNS Developers, Chicago, but nothing in writing yet that BNS intends to proceed with acquisition of the land and construction of apartments. Morrison said he understands a proposal is being prepared by BNS.

A public hearing is scheduled May 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the public library on rezoning the land from industrial to multiple family use to permit construction of apartments.

The 12 acres are urban renewal land which the city would purchase from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for $40,000 then lease to a developer.

Coloma Man Injured In Dam Mishap

BERRIEN SPRINGS — William Franks, 48, route 1, Coloma, remained hospitalized in good condition this morning at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, as a result of injuries received in a construction accident yesterday at the Indiana & Michigan Electric company dam here.

Berrien Springs village-Oronoko township police said Franks, employed by the Sollitt Construction company, South Bend, was working in a pit at the foot of the dam where a fish ladder is being constructed when a six-foot piling fell on him.

Police said a crane operated by Fred Peabody, 39, Allegan, apparently struck a piling, causing the 500 to 600-pound section to fall about 10 feet on Franks' head and shoulders. Franks' forehead was cracked during the mishap and probably prevented further injuries, police said.

Franks suffered head and neck injuries in the 1:45 p.m. accident, police said. Construction workers joined police and ambulance attendants to form a human ladder to lift Franks from the pit.

The site is the location of a $300,000 fish ladder being constructed by the South Bend firm. It is a joint project of the state Department of Natural Resources and I & M.

Michigan Employee Project In Trouble

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A pilot program aimed at helping state employees with drinking, emotional and marital problems is threatened with extinction unless money is found to expand it.

Andrews Lists Top Students

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Winter quarter dean's list at Andrews university here included 70 students from Berrien Springs, St. Joseph, Benton Harbor, Bangor, Dowagiac and Galien.

Twenty-four maintained a perfect 4.0 grade point average to make the list. They included Judith Schoonmaker, Benton Harbor; and Barbara Bell, St. Joseph. The others were from Berrien Springs. EXPERTS SAY that men are going bald much younger than in the past because they have more to worry about in these years. . . . Saturn's entrance to Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) requires these natives to be more mature, serious, responsible as the year rolls on. . . . Sudden Thought: At least there's one thing we can still get free — those tax forms! . . . Our Confusing Language: were, here, there. . . . The average age of first fatherhood has dropped from 27 to 25 in the last half-century. . . . Those Laws: In Sterling, Colorado, it's illegal for a man to kiss a woman while she's sleeping. . . . Handwriting Tip from Dorothy Sara: If a capital "I" is very large but other capitals are smaller, the writer is trying to appear self-assured but, in reality, is not. . . . Item for a Last-in-Conversion: "Anyone ever drawn with the United California Bank will get this message: 'Hello. This is your friendly computer. Your account is still overdue. If payments are not made, I will refer this to a bureau.'"

HELPFUL HINTS: Remove mud from leather shoes by first allowing them to dry, then rub vigorously with a dry cloth. . . . A hot umbrella might find its way back to you if you write your own name and address on a small slip of paper and mail it to the upper shirt with colognease tags.

The administrator of the program says it could survive another year as a pilot project, but then should expand or go under.

"We need additional money to expand, we need to expand now," said Jack Schinderle, administrator of the Employee Service Program (ESP) in the state Civil Service Department. "We were allocated $50,000, but we spent more than that. We need about $250,000 this year to expand as needed."

Schinderle said he was "not too hopeful" of attracting federal funds, and said the legislature may be asked to increase appropriations for the project.

"We've never turned people away from the program and we've seen people from 16 different departments," despite the limited scope of ESP's first year, Schinderle said. "We could operate another year, but there's a point that two of us on the staff and a secretary have difficulty answering calls from employees all over the state."

In its first year, ESP dealt with 127 state employees or their family members, who also are eligible for help. Of that total, about 52 per cent had some sort of emotional problem, 28 per cent alcohol problems, two per cent drugs and 16 per cent with family troubles, Schinderle said.

And that just touches the tip of the iceberg, he says. The

TODAY In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, April 26, the 116th day of 1975. There are 249 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: In 1807, Capt. John Smith landed at Cape Henry, Va., with the first group of colonists who would establish a permanent English settlement in America.

On this date —

In 1783, 7,000 Tories sailed from New York for Nova Scotia.

In 1785, the American naturalist and artist, John James Audubon, was born in Haiti.

In 1865, Abraham Lincoln's assassin, John Wilkes Booth, was captured on a farm near Port Royal, Va.

In 1925, Paul von Hindenburg was elected President of Germany.

In 1954, it was announced that 900,000 American children would receive injections in a nationwide test of Salk antipolio vaccine.

In 1964, the African nations of Tanganyika and Zanzibar merged, forming Tanzania.

Ten years ago: American and South Vietnamese spokesmen confirmed for the first time that a regular unit of the North Vietnamese army was operating in South Vietnam.

Five years ago: Haiti, which had been cut off from the world during an unsuccessful Coast Guard revolt, reopened the airport at Port-au-Prince.

One year ago: A group of army officers in Portugal seized control of the government and said Premier Antonio de Spínola had resigned.

Today's birthday: Entertainer Carol Burnett is 41. Writer Bruce Jay Friedman is 45.

Thought for today: Many toil hard to earn a loaf when a slice is sufficient — a Dutch proverb.

Terrorists Returned To Germany

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — Four of the six terrorists who seized the West German embassy in Stockholm and killed two diplomats were flown back to Germany today under heavy guard.

A fifth terrorist was hospitalized with serious injuries suffered when he and his comrades blew up the embassy building. The sixth killed himself in the final hours of the siege Thursday.

A police spokesman in Hamburg said a Swedish airplane landed here with the four terrorists, plainclothes Swedish guards and two doctors aboard. He said the plane was to continue to Cologne, but its final destination was unknown.

BRITISH WEST Indian islands did not ally themselves politically with the 13 colonies, although sympathetic gestures of supplies and arms for the Revolution were offered. The islands were much more vulnerable to police action by the Royal Navy than were the colonies. The World Almanac notes that, by the same token, the islands were more vulnerable to attack by the navies of hostile nations and were more dependent upon the mother country for protection.

morale," he said. "It's designed to help the supervisor and employee function together better."

"Many supervisors can't believe the new person they get back."

Wildflowers Endangered Species

'Don't Pick Daisies,' Says State

By LARRESTINE TRIMM

LANSING — Wildflowers, mares and wild asparagus are glorious signs of spring in Michigan during the month of May.

With colorful wildflowers, make it a rule to look, sniff the delicate fragrance if you so desire, but don't pick. Some species have become scarce, especially in the heavily-populated southern part of the state, and for this reason many are protected by Michigan law which is enforced by the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

MDA plant industry officials say state law does not permit you to cut, remove or transport any of the following native plants without a bill of sale from the landowner. They are trailing arbutus, bird's foot violet, climbing bittersweet, club mosses, flowering dogwood, all Michigan holly, North American lotus, pipestem, and all native orchids, trilliums and gentians.

While wildflowers are there to be admired, mares and wild asparagus are there to be picked if you can find them. Delectable wild mushrooms are a gourmet's treat and that's why so many Americans flock to the countryside this time of year to participate in the sport of morel hunting.

Experts say morels aren't easily found because they don't grow in clusters, and they blend with natural backgrounds of dead grass, leaves and tree roots. But if you find one, several are likely to be nearby. MDA advises you to exercise caution. Of 2,000 kinds of wild mushrooms grown in the state, the half dozen species of morels are safest to eat.

You can often find wild asparagus quite close to home. Seeds from planted crops are blown afar by the wind and the result is a crop of the tasty fresh vegetable in fields, near streams and along Michigan highways. If you can't locate the wild kind, you can always buy it fresh. It's one of Michigan's leading commercial crops.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR BURT BACHARACH

Who has had the greatest influence on your musical career?—R.T., Visalia, Calif.

● Aside from my mother, who kept at me to practice the piano, I have two other people to thank for my success: my music teacher and Marlene Dietrich. My teacher offered me invaluable advice when he said: "Don't be afraid of writing something people can remember and whistle." Marlene taught me something quite different but equally worthwhile. For four years I toured with her as conductor-arranger; those four years were worth ten hit songs. What she went after, she got. She instilled in me the desire to seek perfection.

FOR DR. MARLIN PERKINS of TV's "Wild Kingdom"

Who would win in a fight between a lion and a leopard or a lion and a tiger?—John L. Lucas, Cocoa Beach, Fla.

● Lions are so much larger than leopards that they would surely win. A number of years ago I asked Clyde Beatty which would win if a lion and a tiger got into a fight. He said this: The tiger goes into battle all out, fighting with intense fury, but the lion, which is basically stronger, starts out with a little reserve. If the tiger did not kill the lion in the first minute, the lion would probably win.

FOR ISAAC ASIMOV

In one of his novels, Jules Verne spoke of rolling sidewalks, neon signs projected on clouds and TV programs from Mars, Jupiter and Venus. Do you agree?—G. G. Crabtree, Lansing, Mich.

● The sidewalks sound practical, but whether we'll develop them in an energy-short world is doubtful. Neon signs projected on clouds sound all right, and someday we'll hear TV reports from explorers on Mars. But not from Venus and Jupiter. Those worlds are too unpleasant to be explored, except by unmanned probes.

FOR TOTIE FIELDS

Are you self-conscious onstage about your weight?—E.F., Van Nuys, Calif.

● No. It's my trademark, and I wouldn't be Totie Fields without it. You know, the whole world wants to look like Ann-Margret, but the truth is that more people look like me than Annie. So when they see me standing up there looking the way they do, an immediate bond is established. By the way—I'd like to look like Ann-Margret too!

FOR KATE SMITH

Will you be involved with any Bicentennial festivities?—Mrs. C. Lehmer, Manson, Wash.

● Definitely. In fact, I believe I have the honor to participate in the first one to be held in 1978. I'm singing at the Rose Bowl Game in Pasadena, which will highlight a fabulous pageant put on by the Walt Disney organization. I'm terribly thrilled about "kicking off" this great celebration.

FOR BARBARA WALTERS

What's it like having a name that's a household word?—H.B., Albany, N.Y.

● I really don't feel that this is the way to describe my name. Perhaps that's because I live in New York where everyone is anonymous. However, becoming somewhat famous has changed my life. It's a beautiful, wonderful experience, and I can never understand the celebrity who whines about being recognized. It's a joy to know that people care about you and like you.

FOR JEANE DIXON

What is your explanation for Ronald Reagan's failure to reach the Presidency, as you predicted he would? Or is it still a possibility?—Bert Haase, Wood-Ridge, N.J.

● I have made no prediction about Ronald Reagan reaching the Presidency. I have stated that he is a man of destiny, and I still feel this in my meditations.

FOR DICK SMOTHERS

How do you and Tom feel about doing your new "mild" variety show?—Mrs. M. A. Schwartz, Nassau, N.Y.

● Hopeful. We had a rest that healed any bitterness we had about the old CBS show, and now we're hopeful that the public will like our comedy and music. I honestly think we're singing better than we ever have, and I hope the public will "buy" our comedy-without-too-much-controversy.

FOR JOANNE CARNER, professional golfer

After losing 40 pounds you went on to become the biggest winner on the ladies tour in 1974, with $87,000. Did you lose the weight while playing?—Joanna Banker, Amherst, N.Y.

● Yes. I talked to several trainers of football teams and after pooling their suggestions, went on a one-meal-a-day diet. I had nothing but coffee all day and then ate dinner after playing. I expect I will keep going back on that diet at different times.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

Is there anything between Prince Charles and Princess Caroline?—A.M., Casper, Wyo.

● The eldest daughter of Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco, who is the prettiest royal teenager in Europe today, has been linked with every eligible prince, count and baron there is—including Prince Charles, about whom she says: "I've never set eyes on him!" She went further and admitted she hasn't even seen most of her reputed escorts (as mentioned in gossip columns). Prince Charles has no special girl friend—at least not of this writing. He confided to a London newspaperman: "The older I get, the more alone I become. There are certain people I thought of along these lines, but there's no one particular at this moment. My marriage has to be forever. I think it's sad these days that people think there's every opportunity to break it off when you feel like it."

The Ponzi Game:

The World's Greatest "Sting" and the Man Who Made It Famous

By Don Dunn

There are certain periods in history when greater numbers of suckers are likely to be found. The period following the First World War when Charles Ponzi began his scheme was one such time. . . . Is today another?

The "swindle of the century" was exposed only a few months ago, when it was discovered that 3,000 investors had sunk more than $100 million into an oil-drilling scheme run by Home-Stake Production Co.

Public and law-enforcement officials alike were stunned, not just by the size of the "take," but by the identities of some of the "suckers." Barbra Streisand and Liza Minnelli were among them, and so were Walter Matthau, Andy Williams and Barbara Walters. But there were noted bankers who were taken too. And politicians. And financial experts, including George J. W. Goodman, who—using the pen name Adam Smith—has written two best sellers about Wall Street.

That these people and thousands like them had given their cash to an unknown Oklahoma lawyer named Robert S. Trippe for nearly 20 years—Andy Williams alone put in $538,000—was a startling revelation. But more surprising was the fact that they were swindled not by a complex system involving computers and stock manipulation, but by one of the simplest and best-known of all confidence rackets: the Ponzi scheme.

"The Ponzi scheme" is named for Charles Ponzi, an Italian immigrant who defrauded some 40,000 Bostonians of $10 million in 1920. It is based on a very, very simple principle: rob Peter to pay Paul. In its barest form, investors are asked to put money into a vague and legitimate-sounding enterprise, and are promised a huge profit in a short time. When the investment actually pays off for a few delighted people, they waste no time telling their friends about the golden opportunity. Some of the friends invest, and tell their friends—and so on. As the circle of investors grows larger, the swindler uses the new money that is continually coming in to pay "profits" to some earlier investors. He keeps this up until he has enough money stashed away (or at least that's how it's supposed to work), then he vanishes.

It seems that there are endless lines of investors waiting to be taken, a fact that the original Ponzi gamesman, Charles Ponzi himself, understood quite well back in 1920. By the time he arrived in Boston at 38, after spending 17 years in the U.S. and Canada, he had also spent time in prisons in both Montreal and Atlanta. There, he had learned from other con artists how easily a pyramid system can be set up—and he had studied how one William F. Miller ran one in Brooklyn in 1901. Called "520 Percent

The former "wizard of Wall Street" being deported in 1934.

They Were Taken

Miller," that youthful swindler had taken in $1 million from local residents by promising to invest the money in a surefire stock-market scheme that would pay ten percent profit a week, or 520 percent a year. Miller ended up in prison, and his exploits became legendary. Ponzi had served sentences for check forging in Canada and then for smuggling Italian aliens across the border into New York. He was free, but flat broke when he began his big venture. From his experience as a clerk in an importing company, he knew something about the value of American money in foreign countries. So he thought up an infamous story indeed. He claimed to have a secret system for moving orders for postage stamps from country to country in such a way that a stamp bought for five cents in one was worth ten cents in another. Money invested in his company—which, in a bold stroke, he called the Securities Exchange Company—would be repaid with 50 percent profit in 45 days or 100 percent profit in 90 days, or so he promised.

His story sounds like a movie scenario. A local furniture dealer came to repossess his office furniture and Ponzi got $200 from him instead. In six months' time Ponzi took in about $10 million. And he did it all without advertising or soliciting by mail, merely by talking up his phantom company to a small group of people in the scheme's first few weeks.

Still, he began to live like a millionaire. He purchased a large home and a new limousine—giving the sellers his worthless notes as partial payment. Always immaculately dressed, and sporting a diamond stickpin and gold-headed cane, he attracted the attention of celebrities of the day. Former heavyweight champion James "Gentleman Jim" Corbett befriended him, and the list of his investors included an important judge, bank presidents and police officials. Taking their money in, and paying part of it out to an ever-widening circle of investors, Ponzi soon hit the headlines. The diminutive (5-4) self-educated Italian was dubbed "the wizard of Wall Street" and "the Columbus of finance, who discovered money" by the newspapers of the day. Huge photographs appeared, showing him posing proudly with his attractive 20-year-old wife and his aging mother on the front porch of his mansion.

But what happens so frequently to Ponzi schemers also happened to Ponzi himself. The millions in his bank accounts went to his head. At one time, Ponzi had $5 million, with money pouring in at the rate of $1 million a week. He began to think that he might really be able to invest the money in a legitimate enterprise, pay off his investors and still come out a rich man.

Then The Boston Post ran his rogues' gallery photographs

It's such a small price to pay to have your mother work less.

This Mother's Day, shop at the Corning "Gifts That Make Life Easier" display at your nearby dealer. You'll find dozens of Corning products designed to save your mother time and work. And priced to save you money.

$22.88 That's all you pay for the CORNING WARE® Kitchen Starter set shown. You save $7.97 over buying the pieces individually. And nothing saves pot scrubbing like CORNING WARE® cookware. It goes right from the freezer, to the range top or oven, to the table. So one piece does the job of a whole sinkful of ordinary pots and pans.

Other sets are priced from $12.88 to $49.88, saving you $2.62 to $23.60 over open-stock prices. Individual bakeware items start as low as $3.95.

$8.95 buys the PYREX® Ware Compatibles bowl set. The casserole costs only $5.95. Compatibles go right from the freezer to the oven. And they look as beautiful on the table as America's favorite dinnerware. Because they come in patterns to match CORELLE® Livingware. Other ovenware sets and accessory items are available from $1.79 to $10.95.

$29.95 for a CORELLE® Livingware service for four. ($24.95 for white.) Never has a set of dishes done as much for so little. CORELLE® looks, feels and even "rings" like fine china. Yet it'll stand up to rough handling and daily dishwasher washings without chipping, cracking or losing its decoration.

$17.99 buys the Corning Electromatic Coffee-maker on the right. Other models are priced from $14.99 to $34.95. That's not much to pay for an easy-to-clean electric coffee pot that actually makes better tasting coffee. And for $49.95, you can give your mother the remarkable, thermostatically-controlled CORNING® Table Range in the Spice-o-Life™ design. It's a portable version of the famous CORNING® smooth-top range. With it, your mother can cook beautiful meals wherever the family decides to eat.

So, this Mother's Day, give your mother the one thing she could use more of. Less work.

Ponzi

from his prison records in Montreal—and the game was up. Thousands of investors swamped his office, demanding their money back. Ponzi paid out all he could, and still was $3 million short. Arrest, jail and deportation to Italy followed swiftly. Behind him he left several banks in total collapse, some local politicians ruined and a grieving wife who eventually divorced him.

The original Ponzi, it seems, learned everything about getting rich from "320 Percent Miller"—but failed to note what eventually happened to his predecessor: jail. Similarly, Ferdinando, Trippet, Sanderson and the others who have tried to surpass Ponzi's record of $10 million in six months have neglected to note the windup of his story. But confidence (or at least the appearance of it) is usually the one thing a swindler possesses. If he lacks that, he has nothing.

Economists and sociologists who have studied the numerous Ponzi ventures since 1920 theorize that there are certain periods in history when greater numbers of suckers are likely to be found. The period following the First World War when Ponzi began his scheme was one such time; the present period is another. In 1920, inflation and falling production rates worried everyone, and veterans returning home found that there were no jobs waiting for them. Looking for ways to beat rising costs, the public turned from the low interest rates paid by banks and rushed into Ponzi's trap. Today, there are inflation, falling production and growing unemployment to make fertile ground for a new Ponzi.

In Virginia last year, for example, a telephone-company employee named Robert D. Johnson was exposed as a Ponzi operator after a ten-year career. He took money from investors and supposedly used it to buy "industrial" wine—to be sold to salad-dressing companies for use in their products. Johnson promised a return of 100 percent on the suckers' money, and paid off often enough to keep the cash rolling in. When he was cornered by the Securities & Exchange Commission, it turned out that there is no such thing as "industrial" wine. Wine is wine—good, bad or indifferent—or else it is vinegar.

Joseph Ferdinando, an ex-meter reader for a New York utility company, saw his Ponzi scheme explode in 1973. He claimed to head a company that bought up outstanding debts owed small companies. Ferdinando said he would take over the painful job of collecting the debts, paying the small companies a slim percentage of the total and keeping the rest for himself. Investors, he promised, could realize huge profits. Some of his suckers included members of the Queens District Attorney's staff.

It really doesn't matter what kind of business a Ponzi swindler says he is operating (since he is actually only in the business of swindling), an alert con man tries to seize on something in the public eye. One recent Nevada venture claimed that it was putting its investors' money into gold coins and silver. An outfit in New York collected $9 million by promising profits of 20 and 30 percent from its investments in real estate—and the money vanished. A Canadian scheme promised returns of 20 percent weekly for 12 weeks, and took in $2.6 million; the money supposedly was being used for a surefire system of beating the racetrack. When the Royal Canadian Mounted Police caught up with the horseplayer, Stanley "Big Sandy" Sanderson, they found he had operated the same kind of system in several cities in the U. S.

In spite of the wide publicity given these and other Ponzi schemes, new ones keep popping up. Alfred Hurwitz, the octogenarian who helped prosecute Ponzi after his arrest, has simple advice for those who don't want to end up on a modern Ponzi's sucker list.

"Before you invest," says Hurwitz, "investigate."

HAIRSPRAY

Family Weekly Beauty & You

Shorter hair and curlier curls—that's the fashion-right look to give you a lift for spring. Wear it just above the shoulder or a little shorter, loosely waved or a bit curlier—whatever suits your face and your frame of mind. The new looks for spring are individual, soft, flattering and carefree!

This spring, hair is springier! It moves, shines, glows with healthy-looking highlights and beautiful color. The magic behind that shine is hair in great condition — healthy-looking, well-cared-for hair that responds to the curl and feels silky to the touch. The way to have this kind of hair is to take the time for one or two deep-penetrating conditioning treatments every month. They are what makes your hair move, bounce and shine.

Every shampoo helps make it prettier, too, when you use the shampoo, conditioners and creme rinse that are right for your particular hair—to make it more manageable, healthier looking. If your hair is less than terrific, turn to page 14 for the exact formula you need to make your hair the way you want it.

Prettier hair means flattering color with highlights where you need them. Maybe it's just a little lightness around the face or a lighter color throughout—for an overall lift or a really light, dramatic new You. Turn to page 13 to see what suits you best.

The curls are the easy part once your hair's in peak condition and glowing with color. Your first prerequisite is a superb haircut—the contemporary kind that makes hair fall into shape naturally. A good professional haircut can release the spring of a natural curl or encourage a hidden wave. And if your hair's straight-as-a-stick, a professional body perm can give it the right bend for the new curly look—with nary a frizzy, just the body and manageability you need for the style you want.

Keep styling quick and easy with beauty appliances. Blow-dry your hair into a softly curly style or try a steam styling wand or electric rollers for a curlier look.

If your curls wilt too quickly, a heat-activated conditioner may be what you need for a little extra body. Spray it on before rolling up your hair in electric rollers—or if you're using a curling iron, spray the conditioner on and let it dry before twirling up the curls. When the curling's done, spritz on a little non-Aerosol hair mist as a final touch, to lock out the humidity and lock in the curls.

Continued

What keeps this fashionably curly head curly all day long is a light spritz of a non-Aerosol hair mist.

Spring News:

Shorter, Curlier, Prettier Hair

It lets me be me:

Nice 'n Easy haircolor. It never looks fussed over or phony. It always gives me beautiful coverage. Healthy-looking hair. And absolutely natural, honest-looking hair color. Now, whether you want to color or conceal, change a little or a lot, what more could you ask for?

That's why I never ask for anything else.

Nice 'n Easy haircolor
It sells the most.

Look to The Light Side

Go a little lighter overall with shampoo-in tint. You can add red or gold highlights, too, if you want them.

A Little Lighter Overall

If you're looking for a lift, for a lighter, brighter, happier feeling, a shampoo-in tint might be just the ticket. It can lighten, color and condition your hair in one easy step. Try a shade one, two or three shades lighter than your natural color. You can add golden or reddish highlights by choosing the warm colors or minimize red with the ash shades. It's easy—just be sure to look at the box to see exactly how the shade you've chosen will look on your hair. If your hair tends to be ornery, you'll be surprised how manageable it can become.

Lighter is prettier—for almost every face. It means even more as you get a bit older too—because lightness softens and tones down those ever-increasing tiny wrinkles. Add a glimmer of highlight, or if you're more daring, create dramatic streaks. Or go all the way and lighten your hair all over—bring drab brown hair up a shade or two and give it pretty golden highlights. Lift dishwater blonde to real blonde. Lighter can mean everything from the subtlest of highlights to dramatic lightness—whatever you like. It's all in knowing what you want and how to go about doing it. And whether you decide to lighten your hair or not, be sure to use a deep-penetrating conditioner (one example: condition*) at least once a month to keep your hair looking its best.

Add a subtle touch of light to your hair with hair painting. You can paint on its natural-looking "highlights" yourself.

Hair Painting

For the subtlest hint of light, hair painting is the sunny new look. It's easy and fun—you just paint it on with a brush—as little or as much as you want, wherever you want it. It's best for light-brown or lighter hair—it won't really show on darker hair. An instant lift! You might want to try it just around your face first to see how you like it. You can always do more when the mood strikes you.

For brighter, more noticeable highlights, frosting is the answer. You can frost softly or boldly—it's up to you.

Frosting

Frosting creates a lighter, more defined look than hair painting, but you can still control it to give as little or as much lightening as you want. Keep it subtle—just lightening a few strands of hair—or make it dramatic by doing more. A current favorite is the "sunburst" lightness just around the face. Frosting works best on shades from blonde to medium brown. So if you'd love a lighter look with minimum care, frosting may be your answer.

If really light blonde is the look for you, you're just two easy steps away from a dramatic difference.

Really Light

If you'd love to be light blonde and your hair is fairly dark or has red undertones, two-step blonding is for you. The two steps are lightening and toning. In the first step, color is removed from the hair (lightening). In the second step, the desired color is put into the hair (toning). Be sure to buy both the lightener and the toner at the same time and read the directions before you begin. That makes it easy! And the result is terrific.

Your Hair: The Thin and Thick of It

To make the most of your hair, you have to understand it. Is your hair thick or thin, fine or coarse? Does it have a tendency to wave? The way you care for your hair depends very much on what type of hair it is. Should you use a conditioner, a creme rinse or both? What about shampoos? And the cut—what's best for you? To make your hair look terrific, check the descriptions below. Then follow the prescription for your particular type of hair. Even if your hair seems "normal," it probably leans toward one category or another. Pick the one that suits you best. Once you are sure that what you are doing is best for your own hair, caring for it is easy and fun.

Fine, Thin Hair

If your hair is fine and thin, you'll know. It's flyaway, lacks body and sometimes hangs limp and stringy around your face. Fine, thin hair is difficult to style and frequently causes you to moan, "I can't do a thing with it." But you can!

R&: Your fine, thin hair needs body. Start with a good professional cut. An all-one-length blunt cut is a good choice to give your hair fullness as well as a degree of versatility. Don't let your hair get any longer than shoulder length—beyond that its sheer weight will drag out any style you've managed to put in. To add some body and encourage your hair to hold its style, try a body wave. Hair coloring can add body too. Choose a shampoo for delicate hair and shampoo often—the least amount of dirt and oil will make fine, thin hair look stringy. To finish off your hairstyle, use a light spritz of a non-Aerosol hair mist to hold your curls longer.

Fine, Thick Hair

If your hair is fine, each strand is silky and slender and you may not realize how thick it is. If you treat it like fine, thin hair, you may end up with an unmanageable bushy-type look. Once you understand the kind of hair you really have, it's easy to cope with it and it can look terrific.

R&: Take advantage of your thick hair by having it cut in layers, making sure each layer is blunt cut. If there's any natural curl, good cutting can encourage it. If your hair is very straight, you may need a body perm to keep your style in shape. Use a deep-penetrating conditioner once a month to keep your hair shiny and manageable; twice a month if you have a perm. Be sure to choose a shampoo that's right for your hair, be it normal, oily or dry. Use a body-building conditioner after every shampoo to help keep your hair looking super.

Coarse, Thin Hair

Coarse hair has lots of body, but if it's thin, you'll need expert styling to give it a look of total fullness, especially around the hairline. Since your hair probably has a mind of its own, you have to concentrate on getting it under control.

R&: The cut is all-important. When your hair is coarse, it generally has lots of body and is strong too. Be sure your hair is blunt cut, whether you wear it all one length or in layers to help create a fuller look. Frequent conditioning treatments are essential to keep your hair soft and manageable. Use a deep-penetrating conditioning treatment at least once a month and a creme rinse after every shampoo. To keep your style under control, try a light spritz of a non-Aerosol hair mist.

Coarse, Thick Hair

Coarse, thick hair can be hard to manage. Each strand is fat, sometimes wiry, and there are so many of them! You've probably thought you were cursed with coarse, thick hair, but properly handled, your hair can become the most beautiful kind of all.

R&: Expert cutting is essential. Generally, thick hair is cut in layers to help reduce its bulk, thus making the hair easier to manage. Guard against having your hair cut too short, however—there will be no keeping it down. Choose a shampoo that is especially geared to your particular hair type, be it oily, dry or normal. Always follow your shampoo with a creme rinse to help tame your hair. But stay away from body-building creme rinses or conditioners—you've got all the body you need!

Sally Struthers, TV's "Gloria": Slowly, Painfully, She's "Learning to Be Me"

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

When Sally Struthers walks into a room, you know it. There's an intensity and a suppressed energy that crowds in with her. And her schoolgirl voice, with its changing pitches, seems sure and audible. You would think that the girl who plays Gloria in "All in the Family" is the most cocksure, self-possessed young woman of the year. But that's not so—as I soon learned.

FAMILY WEEKLY: Why have you been so reluctant to give interviews?

SALLY: Because I've had some awful experiences. Some of the things that have appeared in print as my quotes have hurt other people's feelings, and weren't what I'd said at all, or the way I meant them. I wouldn't hurt someone else's feelings for anything!

FW: Does this kind of sensitivity get in your way?

SALLY: Yes, it does. That's why I'm into transactional analysis—the "I'm okay, you're okay" method. I used to walk around feeling "I'm not okay" all the time.

FW: What do you mean?

SALLY: If someone came up to me and said, "Gee, you're wearing funny-looking shoes," I'd immediately be hurt and depressed and feel I wasn't okay. This marvelous man I am going to, who is a minister as well as a doctor, is teaching me how to transact on a one-to-one basis, so that I believe I am okay. I have to strengthen my belief in my worth as an individual.

FW: Does it work?

SALLY: Oh, yes. We have a couple of new writers on the show, and one day one of them said, "Say, I saw you in a movie the other day. . . ." And I thought he was going to say the usual polite things like "I liked you in the part" or "I thought you did a good job," etc. Instead, he said, "I think you looked heavier in the film." If that had happened a few months ago, I would have walked away hurt. But this time, I thought, "Why be so hurt? Why let it get to you?" I simply said, "I don't really enjoy talking about my weight. If you don't mind, may we talk about something else?" I'd never done anything like that before. Never expressed what I really felt. But now I realize that if you do, other people have something to go on. They know where you stand. It eliminates guesswork.

FW: How did you find this man who is helping you analyze yourself?

SALLY: I went to an attorney with my

Tyler Thomson

"This big man looked down at me, paused, and then very quietly, he said, 'It's taken care of.' My stomach dropped and I thought to myself, 'I think I'm in love!'" husband-to-be—Arthur Fisher—and we said, "Look, we don't know who to ask, but we want to know ourselves and each other better before we get married. We thought of consulting a marriage counselor, but we don't know how to go about finding one." Our attorney sent us to this man.

FW: Isn't it unusual to go to a counselor or analyst before getting married?

SALLY: I suppose so. But we'd been in love for six months and during that time, like most people, we'd had occasional arguments. Since both of us are moody and emotional, the arguments always became volatile, and before we finished, we'd run the gamut of emotions. So before we got married, we wanted to find a better way of communicating.

FW: Will your marriage to Arthur be your first?

SALLY: It's my first, his second. He was married when he was very young, and it didn't last.

FW: How did you meet?

SALLY: We found each other when I guested on "The Sonny and Cher Comedy Hour," which he directed. I knew right away I liked him. All through rehearsals I'd stare at him. Later he admitted to me that he'd hung around after rehearsals watching me work with the choreographer just to be near me.

FW: When did you know that he was Mr. Right?

SALLY: One day during dress rehearsal a stage manager was really upsetting me. He kept coming in and pressuring me to hurry up. So the next time he did it, I stormed over to Art—he's 6-2, and I'm 5-1—and hollered up at him, "I won't be late! I'm very professional! This stage manager keeps telling me to hurry up and I hurry up and no one else is ready and he's still after me to hurry up—you've got to get him off my back!" I was really wound up! When I'd gotten it all out, this big man looked down at me, paused, and then very quietly, he said, "It's taken care of." My stomach dropped and I thought to myself, "I think I'm in love!"

FW: When did you decide you wanted to get married?

SALLY: After a month or two we knew we were so deeply in love that marriage was the right way to commit to each other. I am very old-fashioned, and although he never thought he'd marry again, we're so much in love we think it's the proper thing to do.

FW: What does marriage mean to you?

SALLY: It doesn't mean you own the other person. It's simply a public way of saying I love only you and will stay with you.

FW: Will you stop acting after you are married?

SALLY: No. Arthur is proud of my work. He would never ask me to stop. In fact, he encourages me to do more. I doubt if I'd ever meet a man outside the profession who would understand my need to perform. I think both of us will work until we're put in "the home."

FW: Has transactional analysis made any difference in your relationship with your costars on "All in the Family"?

SALLY: We're three and a half years into the show, and for all those years I've held in my feelings and tried to prove to everyone that I'm "lovable." I've played a role within a role: I made myself be a happy, giddy kid playing Gloria. No matter how I really felt, I dealt with life like a court jester. Now I can level with these people and that leaves them free to choose how to deal with me. Until now, they didn't really know who I was.

FW: Are you personal friends with members of the cast?

SALLY: Yes, but no one has ever pushed to make a relationship outside the show. Perhaps that's one reason why we're all still good friends.

FW: I read that you once told a reporter that working on the show was like being in prison. Do you still feel that way?

SALLY: Of course not! In one of my low moments I made the mistake of saying that going home after a day's work was like being paroled at night for good acting—and I probably felt that way at the time. You see, the room we work in is built for work. There are no windows, no outside awareness at all. If we walk out at night and the asphalt is all wet, we feel safe to assume it rained. Art recently gave me a little computer and I sat down and figured out how many hours I'd spent in a room without windows. When I saw that, I thought, "It's a wonder I'm not crazy by now!"

FW: How long would you like to stay with "All in the Family"?

SALLY: As long as it lasts. I used to think that the part of Gloria was a thankless one—at least I talked myself into that idea. It was a state of "I'm not okay." I kept thinking they could do without me. But now I know it's a wonderful part and they are a wonderful group of people. I want to stick with it. It can't hurt me to stay with something this good.

Put your cigarette against it.

What's More? It's a whole new look in cigarettes. A whole new feel. A whole new length.

More is more by design.

It's the first 120 mm cigarette. It was conceived and engineered to give you an all-new smoking experience.

It's a longer and leaner cigarette. (Which makes it look terrific.)

It smokes slower and draws easy for more enjoyment. (Which means more time for those relaxing moments.)

It's More. With over 50% more puffs than a 100 mm cigarette. Yet More doesn't cost more. (Which means more for your money.) And because More is more flavorful (yet surprisingly mild), it will be one of the most satisfying smoking experiences you'll ever have.

New Filter More.

Like no cigarette that ever was.

Because More is a cigarette that offers so much more, we felt it should look like more, too. So we've put it in an all-new cigarette wrap that's a handsome burnished brown.

More. It looks like more. It tastes like more. It's more in every way except price.

More. It sits neat in your hand like it was made for it and fits your face like it found a home.

New Menthol More.

It's a cooling blast.

If you like menthol, now you can have More Menthol.

More Menthol gives you more coolness, more tobacco enjoyment. It's the new 120 mm menthol cigarette that starts with a blast, and cruises you through the longest, slowest-burning, coolest-smoking experience you've ever had.

And just like More Filters, More Menthol gives you more for your money.

Over 50% more puffs than a 100 mm menthol cigarette.

More Menthol. Long, lean and burnished brown, it looks as cool as it smokes.

More Menthol. You don't have to pay more to get it. And once you've got it, you'll wonder where it's been all your life.

The first 120mm cigarette.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

Filter, Menthol: 21 mg. "tar", 1.6 mg. nicotine-av. per cigarette by FTC method.

STEVE GARVEY:

His Desire and Willingness Paid Off—Big!

When he was a child in Florida, Steve Garvey used to ride on the bus his dad drove to take the Brooklyn Dodgers to training camp and exhibition games, dreaming of wearing a Dodger uniform. Now Steve's dream has come true—but in Los Angeles, not Brooklyn. His heavy hitting and sparkling play at first base were prime reasons for the Dodgers' National League championship last season. He won the National League's Most Valuable Player award and also the MVP in the 1974 All-Star game. . . . Garvey, who is 26, signed with the Dodger organization in 1968, after playing baseball and football at Michigan State. His great desire and his willingness to take any assignment to help the team have endeared him to management as well as to fans. For a while, he was used only as a pinch hitter, but he didn't complain. "I thought it was a stepping-stone to getting into the regular lineup," he says. During his early career, he played mostly at third base but went willingly to the outfield when manager Walt Alston told him he was needed there. Then there was a need for him at first, and he moved over there. Says Dodger coach Monte Basgall, "Although Steve's only 5-10—short for a first baseman—he's demonstrated the agility and reach to catch throws that go high or are down in the dirt." After getting the chance to play regularly last year, he posted a .304 batting average and then became one of the Dodgers' leading hitters this season. "Steve has the aggressiveness and the natural talents that let him adapt to any position on the diamond," says Alston. Steve does prefer playing first to any other position, however—if for no other reason than that his idol when he rode the Dodger bus as a kid was Gil Hodges. —By Barry Abramson

The Doctor Lets You In

Now Diabetes Story:

"The Mumps Connection"

We have always thought of diabetes as a genetic or endocrinological disease. But Dr. H. A. Sutz of the University of Buffalo has recently found that half the children who develop diabetes have had mumps within the preceding four years. That's right—not measles, not chicken pox: mumps. Mumps, as you know, is a viral infection of the parotid glands near the ear and at the lower jaw. Doctors have long known that it can have serious side effects—particularly if the infection comes to rest in the testes or ovaries. In that event, a child can grow up to be sterile. We also know that the mumps virus can affect the pancreas—the organ that produces insulin, the absence of which can contribute to the development of diabetes. But before Dr. Sutz's studies, we never had any clear evidence of a connection between mumps and diabetes. Presumably, the mumps virus is capable of degenerating the pancreas so that it cannot produce insulin—and hence, diabetes sets in. One of our present tests for pancreas degeneration—the amylase activity assay—does not show pancreas damage caused by mumps. But on the weight of these new statistical findings, it seems that the development of new and different kinds of pancreas tests would be a worthwhile undertaking. —By Erwin Di Cyn, Ph.D.

People Quiz

The Hidden Laws That Often Cause Unhappiness

True or False: Some people fall ill at the same time each year—regardless of weather, climate or what they are doing. (See number 1)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Some people fall ill at the same time each year—regardless of weather, climate or what they are doing.
2. Most hangovers are not caused by liquor.
3. Many heart attacks occur simply because the person is sick and tired of his life situation and wants "out."
4. Unhappiness causes a lot of people to have skin trouble.
5. Whether success has a positive or negative effect on one's happiness depends on one thing.

ANSWERS

1. True—according to studies conducted at the University of Amsterdam. Known as the Anniversary Disease, this phenomenon was found to recur with many people exactly on the anniversary of some unresolved conflict situation. It was found to be a form of self-punishment for repressed feelings of anger and aggression toward loved ones. In most cases, the Anniversary Disease—which takes the form of ailments ranging from respiratory afflictions to severe low back pain—is of brief duration, lasting no more than a week or ten days.

2. True—as evidenced by laboratory studies directed by Dr. Stewart Wolf at the Oklahoma Medical Research Foundation. The investigation showed no predictable relationship between the amount of liquor consumed and a hangover. Observations were made on men who had experienced hangovers from time to time the morning after drinking eight ounces, or even much less, of an alcoholic beverage. However, they were able to drink more than this quantity—up to 15 ounces of spirits—in the quiet environment of the laboratory without any sign of headache or other manifestation of hangover. Even mixing drinks failed to produce a hangover. Conclusion: "It is clear that something more than alcohol is required to elicit a hangover headache." Dr. Wolf believes that the stress of a party and the general overstimu-lation and resulting fatigue, often with feelings of remorse and guilt, are the contributing factors.

3. True. Studies at the Menninger Foundation indicate that psychological forces are an important contributing factor in heart attacks, and that "it seems that individuals die when they are no longer able to live because of terminal psychic impairment as well as terminal physical impairment. They feel locked into an intolerable situation from which they see no means of escape. The dilemma has only one road out." In other words, for some individuals, heart attack may represent a socially sanctioned suicide.

4. True. A study by a team of specialists of the records of more than 1,100 persons who were troubled by various types of skin ailments showed that in 500 cases the complaints were linked to emotional causes. Of these cases, almost 70 percent of the people were found to be suffering from depression and more than 18 percent from emotional conflicts. It's noted that the depression manifested by these skin disorders is mild in type, and that the condition improves rapidly with the lifting of the depression.

5. True—according to studies of industry and management conducted by a team of California State University investigators. Findings: High achievement will not compensate a man or woman who lacks an inner sense of personal worth—and striving for achievement can then become a treadmill to oblivion accelerated by depression or various psychosomatic ailments. According to the studies, none of the symbols of corporate achievement—key to the executive washroom, private secretary, parking privileges, etc.—was found to contribute to genuine feelings of accomplishment. It seems that climbing the ladder of success can be a self-fulfilling experience—but only if the individual's role contributes positively to his sense of being a valued human being.

Lawrence Welk's SING-A-LONG SONG BOOK

LAWRENCE WELK

Now, at last, the man whose music made America sing and dance for more than 50 years, brings you his favorites (and yours) in a book the whole family will enjoy, night after night, day after day, for years and years.

One person at a piano, guitar or organ can enjoy these easy-to-follow, newly engraved, unique arrangements... two people can enjoy happy hours of singing and playing together... a whole group can pass fun-filled hours at home, at parties, at picnics, on the patio or porch... wherever family, friends or couples choose to let the magic of music fill their lives.

A Family Book for Family Fun

Here are Lawrence Welk's selections... from International Favorites to Show-Time Hits, Country and Western, Folk Songs, Hit Parade perennials, Religious and Patriotic music... and music for youngsters, too. A complete and "wonderful" selection that everyone will love.

See some of the titles given in the partial list on this page. Then imagine playing and singing them... in the happy-go-lucky Lawrence Welk music style. Every song has been specially arranged so that you can play them at your best (they really make you sound better than you are) with easy and interesting passages... fun to play, a delight to the ear and easy to follow.

Special Offer If You Act Now

We know you'll want to reserve your copy immediately. We have printed a large first edition, but you can imagine how fast this first Lawrence Welk Song Book ever published will sell! So we urge you to send your order in now.

If you do, we will send your copy at the Special Introductory price of only $10.95! Remember, this lavish book of 272 pages with 111 great songs and arrangements... Plus SPECIAL BONUS — The Lawrence Welk TV Theme Song — is yours at this low price only on this special offer. After this first printing is exhausted we expect the price to rise several dollars because of higher printing and paper costs.

Regular and Menthol

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hanson prepares a meal based on stew and bread. "Its secret ingredients," says Marilyn, "are the Brussels sprouts in the stew and the mushrooms in the bread."

A Tasty New Stew— And a Rich New Bread

BEEF 'N' SPROUT STEW

- 3 lbs. lean stew beef, cut into 1½-inch cubes
2-4 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon garlic, finely chopped
1 can (16 oz.) whole tomatoes, packed in puree, undrained
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 teaspoon savory leaves
1 bay leaf, crumbled
¼ teaspoon thyme leaves
¼ teaspoon basil leaves
1 beef bouillon cube
3 cups water
1 lb. carrots, peeled and cut into 2-inch chunks
6 medium potatoes, peeled and halved
2 pligs. (16-oz. size) frozen Brussels sprouts or 2 pint baskets fresh Brussels sprouts, trimmed
2 tablespoons flour

1. In 6-8-qt. Dutch oven brown meat cubes in hot oil, several at a time, over medium-high heat. Remove to bowl as browned.
2. Stir chopped onion and garlic into drippings. Sauté, stirring, until onion is limp, about 5 minutes. Add meat.
3. Add tomatoes, seasonings and 2½ cups water. Cover and bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 1½ hours.
4. Add carrots and potatoes; simmer 40 minutes more. Add Brussels sprouts; simmer about 10 minutes longer.
5. Combine flour with ½ cup water smoothly; stir into stew. Heat to boiling, stirring.

Makes 6-8 servings

MUSHROOM BREAD

- ¼ cup (½ stick) margarine
½ lb. mushrooms, finely chopped
1 cup finely chopped onion
2 cups milk
3 tablespoons molasses
5 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
½ cup very warm water (105°F.-115°F.)
2 pligs. active dry yeast
1 egg
1 cup wheat germ
8-9 cups unbleached all-purpose flour

1. Melt 2 tablespoons margarine in large skillet over medium heat. Add mushrooms and onion and sauté, stirring, until liquid has evaporated. Cool.
2. Scald milk; stir in remaining margarine, molasses, salt and pepper. Cool. Pour water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle in yeast, stir until dissolved.

Mushroom Bread has a nutrition bonus: mushrooms and wheat germ.

3. Add lukewarm milk mixture, mushroom mixture, egg, wheat germ and 2 cups flour; beat hard until smooth.
4. Stir in enough additional flour to make a stiff dough. Knead until smooth and elastic, about 8-10 minutes.
5. Place in large greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk.
6. Prepare Mushroom Pans from four 1 lb. 12 oz. cans and cardboard. Cut cardboard into 4 squares 2 inches wider than can tops. Trace tops in center of squares and cut out. Cover rings with foil. Place rings over cans so they fit tightly. Grease cans and collars well.
7. Punch down dough on lightly floured board. Divide in 4 equal pieces. Shape pieces into smooth, round balls. Place in Mushroom Pans. Let rise, uncovered, in warm place till bulk doubles.
8. When dough has risen about 2 inches above pans, press lower edge of mushroom cap down gently with fingertips to meet foil-covered collar.
9. Bake on lowest rack of preheated 400° F. oven about 40 minutes, or until done. Carefully remove from pans and cool on wire racks.
10. To make loaves: Divide dough in half. Roll each half into 14x9-inch rectangle. Shape into loaves. Place in 2 greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pans. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.
11. Bake in preheated 400° F. oven about 45 minutes, or until done. Remove from pans and cool on wire racks.

Makes 4 mushroom loaves or 2 (9-inch) loaves

Grass Seed Is For The Birds! Zoysia Saves Time, Work, Money

SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY OFFER! ORDER NOW
AND GET UP TO 200 PLUGS FREE!

By Mike Sanliw
Agronomist

Every year I see people pour more and more money into their lawns. They dig, fertilize and lime. They rake it all in. They scatter their seed and roll and water it.

Birds love it! Seeds which aren't washed away by rain give them a feast. But some seed grows, and soon it's time to weed, water and mow... until summer comes to burn the lawn into hay, or crabgrass and diseases infest it.

That's what happens to ordinary grass, but not to Zoysia.

"MOWED IT 2 TIMES," WRITES WOMAN

For example, Mrs. M. R. Mitter writes me how her lawn "... is the envy of all who see it. When everybody's lawns around here are brown from drought ours just stays as green as ever. I've never watered it, only when I put the plugs in ... Last summer we had it mowed (2) times. Another thing, we never have to pull any weeds — it's just wonderful!"

And from Iowa came word that the state's largest Men's Garden Club picked a Zoysia lawn as the "top lawn — nearly perfect" in its area. Yet this lawn had been watered only once all summer up to August!

These represent but 2 of thousands of happy Zoysia owners. Their experiences show that you, too, can have a lawn that stays green and beautiful thru blistering heat, water bans — even drought!

Cuts Your Work, Saves You Money

Your deep-rooted, established Amazoyn lawn saves you time and money in many ways. It never needs replacement... ends re-seeding forever. Fertilizing and watering (water costs money, too) are rarely if ever needed. It ends the need for crabgrass killers permanently. It cuts pushing a noisy mower in the blistering sun by 2/3.

CHOKES OUT CRABGRASS

Thick rich, luxurious Amazoyn grows into a carpet of grass that chokes out crabgrass and weeds all summer long. It will NOT winter kill. Goes off its green color after killing frost, regains fresh new beauty every Spring—a true perennial!

For Slopes, Play Areas, Bare Spots

If slopes are a problem, just plug in Amazoyn. When established, it will end erosion—also plug it into hard-to-cover spots, play-worn areas, etc.

YOUR OWN SUPPLY OF PLUG TRANSPLANTS

Your established turf provides you with Zoysia plugs for other areas as you may desire.

WEAR RESISTANT

Your Amazoyn lawn takes such wear as cook-outs, lawn parties, lawn furniture, etc. Grows so thick you could play football on it and not get your feet muddy. Even if children play on it, they won't hurt it—or themselves.

NO SEED, NO SOD!

Do not mistake Amazoyn pre-cut plugs for sod or seed of any type of grass. There's no seed that produces winter-hardy Meyer Zoysia. Sod of ordinary grass carries with it the same problems as seed—such as weed, disease, frequent mowing, burning out, etc.

Order now for Bonus Plugs and earliest delivery at planting time in your area. Orders are shipped the same day when from stock, shipping charges collect the next business day.

Meyer 2-52 Zoysia Grass was perfected by U.S. Government; released in co-operation with U.S. Golf Assoc. as a superior grass.

NOW BETTER THAN EVER!

If you have thought and thought about Zoysia plugs before trying them, wait no longer. Amazoyn plugs have been improved! Now automatically sealed in our 1975 exclusive "Thermoplastic TP" Process, they breathe as they ride, retain moisture... arrive fresher and ready to "take off" into that permanent lawn you deserve. Try 'em. You cannot lose!

NO NEED TO RIP OUT PRESENT GRASS

Now's the time to order your Zoysia plugs — to get started on a lawn that will choke out crabgrass and weeds all summer long and year after year.

Plug it into an entire lawn or limited "problem areas." Plug it into poor soil, "builder's soil," clay or sandy soils — even salty, beach areas, and I guarantee it to grow!

PLUG AMAZOYN INTO OLD LAWN, NEW GROUND OR NURSERY AREA

Just set Amazoyn plugs into holes in ground like a cork in a bottle. Plant 1 foot apart, checkerboard style. Every plug 8 sq. inches.

When planted in existing lawn areas plugs will spread to drive out old unwanted growth, including weeds. Easy planting instructions with order.

FREE PATENTED STEP ON PLOUGH, SENT FREE WITH LARGER ORDERS — 500 PLUGS OR MORE

A growth-producing 2-way pluggger that saves bending, time, work. Cuts away competing growth at same time it digs holes for plugs. Invaluable for transplanting. Rugged yet so light a woman can use it.

Every Plug	Guaranteed to Grow	In your Soil in your Area
• WON'T WINTER KILL — has survived temperatures 30° below zero! • WON'T HEAT KILL — When other grasses burn out, Amazoyn stays green and lovely!
Every plug must grow within 45 days, or we replace it free. Since we're hardly in business for the fun of it — you know we have to be sure of our product.

Order and plug in Amazoyn now, let it spread into thrillingly beautiful turf!

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

SUPER SPY

In supermarkets it requires
A super man or woman,
A person with the sharpest eye,
Persistence and acumen.

You see, it takes a special knack,
Sometimes, to find an item.
Signs are a help, but not enough
And sometimes you can't sight 'em.

Yes, searching out just what is where
Is really quite a task,

And it is almost harder, friends,
To find someone to ask.

A woman parked her small sports car in front of a roadside fruit and vegetable stand. She saw the farmer eyeing the car. "Do you like it?" she asked.

He replied: "Picked it before it was ripe, didn't you?" —Lucille S. Harper

Sometimes I think we make it too easy for our kids. The previous generation only told them about the Great Depression. We're bringing it to them live!

—Robert Orben

"Do you believe in life after death?" the boss asked one of his younger employees. "Yes, sir." "Well, that makes everything just fine," he continued. "About an hour after you left yesterday to go to your grandfather's funeral, he stopped in to see you."

—Dorothea Kent

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

Kids see life differently. Send contributions to "Child," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10022. $10 if used—none returned.

Trying to let my five-year-old feel a part of sharing some responsibility for our new baby, I gave him various jobs he could handle. After spending a special afternoon together, I gave him the money to pay the baby-sitter. He walked in the house, handed her the money and simply said, "I've come to buy back my baby brother."

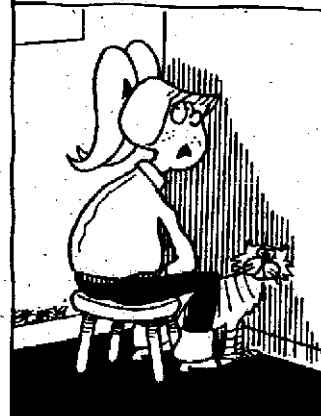

—Meridel Carson
Canoga Park, Calif.

Nothing makes time fly faster than buying on it.

LITTLE EMILY

"Well, look at the bright side—at least it shows I still have spirit!"

You've taken your last rough puff, once you come up to the smooth taste of extra coolness.

What in the World!

JOAN CRAWFORD
Looking back on 50 years

This year, Joan Crawford celebrates her 50th anniversary as an actress. Reflecting on her long career (she began as a dancer named Lucille Le Sueur), she recounted for FAMILY WEEKLY what she did with her first paycheck, and also how she knew she had "arrived." "My first weekly paycheck from MGM was for a whole $75! I used it to pay all my bills, gave some money to my mother and brother—and even managed to start a savings account with what was left over!" (Six years later, Miss Crawford was voted one of the ten best money-making stars in Hollywood.) "I first knew my name must mean something when I was asked to 'lend' it for political purposes. It took me a while to realize that it didn't matter what my political biases were—my name was solicited because of the tremendous power wielded by the motion-picture industry." Thereafter, she stopped lending her name to political organizations. "As far as I'm concerned," says Miss Crawford "the function of the motion-picture business is to supply entertainment and get people to the box office, not to the polls."

How Colonel Sanders got his start:

"Harland Sanders was sitting on his porch in Corbin, Ky., one morning and the mailman came up the walk and handed him his first Social Security check. Sixty-five years old, broke and defeated, he looked at the check and said, 'My government is going to give me $105 a month so I can eke out an existence. Surely there is something I can do.'... The thought of his mother's special recipe for fried chicken came to him. He decided to try to sell franchises for marketing his fried-chicken formula. After being turned down by scores of restaurants, he sold his first franchise in Salt Lake City. It was an instantaneous hit. Ten years later, at age 75, he sold his rights in the company and was employed as a goodwill ambassador for the new organization. . . . His experience primarily underscores the fact that no person need be defeated unless he wills it so. And it also illustrates that life is full of possibilities if one gets motivated and works and thinks." From "You Can If You Think You Can," by Norman Vincent Peale (Prentice-Hall, $6.95).

You can increase your retirement income—and maybe even have fun doing it. Today, one out of every six people over 65 works at some sort of paying job—not just for added income but also for a greater sense of purpose and involvement. Now, "Retirement Living" magazine has published a new booklet called "Working in Retirement—1975." The guide tells you how to earn money from hobbies, build a retirement business, cope with Social Security laws, master new skills at home or in school. It also explains how to locate a part-time or temporary job, prepare a winning resumé, use employment guidance services and even find work overseas. To buy the booklet send $1 to: Retirement Living, 150 East 58th Street, New York, N.Y. 10022.
